

90 DAYS
— OF — PROMOTING — YOUR —
BOOK ONLINE

Your Book's
Daily Marketing Plan

PLUS "AFTER 90 DAYS" — DAY-BY-DAY PROMOTIONAL TASKS FOR ONGOING SALES

BOOKLOCKER.COM
WRITERSWEEKLY.COM

ANGELA HOY AND RICHARD HOY

90 DAYS OF PROMOTING YOUR BOOK ONLINE: Your Book's Daily Marketing Plan. Promote Your New Book ~ OR ~ Breathe Life Back Into an Older One! Do you want to generate sales for your book, but just aren't sure what steps to take? This is for you! Promoting your book online should be considered at least a part-time job. Highly successful authors spend more time promoting a book than they do writing it - a lot more. We know what you're thinking. You're an author, not a marketer. Not to worry! We have more than a decade of successful online book selling experience under our belts and we're going to teach you how to promote your book effectively online...and almost all of our techniques are FREE! WHAT'S THE BIGGEST MISTAKE AUTHORS MAKE? If you really want to sell books, don't do what most authors do - dump your book at a few websites and walk away, hoping it'll catch on some day. That just doesn't happen in the real world. Don't hide your words from the world! Promote it aggressively using the easy tips and schedule provided in this book! Online book promotion is not only simple but, if you have a step-by-step, day-to-day marketing plan (this book!), it can also be a very artistic endeavor, which makes it fun for creative folks like you! Yes, online book promoting can be EASY and FUN! Let us show you how, from Day 1 through Day 90...and beyond!

90 Days of Promoting Your Book Online

Order the complete book from

Booklocker.com

<http://www.booklocker.com/p/books/5948.html?s=pdf>

or from your favorite neighborhood
or online bookstore.

Your Free excerpt appears below. Enjoy!

90 DAYS OF PROMOTING YOUR BOOK ONLINE

Your Book's Daily Marketing Plan

PLUS
"After 90 Days!"

Day-by-Day Promotional Tasks
for Ongoing Sales

Angela Hoy

and

Richard Hoy

BookLocker.com

WritersWeekly.com

Copyright © 2012 Angela Hoy and Richard Hoy

ISBN 978-1-60145-460-7

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, recording or otherwise, without the prior written permission of the author.

Printed in the United States of America on acid-free paper.

BookLocker.com, Inc.
2012

Library of Congress Control Number: 2011914099

Library of Congress Cataloguing-in-Publication Data

Hoy, Angela J. 1967-

Hoy, Richard D., 1967-

90 Days of Promoting Your Book Online: Your Book's Daily Marketing Plan / Angela Hoy, Richard Hoy

ISBN 978-1-60145-460-7

1. Authorship—Marketing. 2. Books—Marketing. 3. Selling—Books.

<http://www.90DaysOfPromoting.com>

Cover Design: Todd Engel, Engel Creative – <http://EngelCreative.net>

Editor: Harvey Stanbrough – <http://HarveyStanbrough.com>

INTRODUCTION

Glory day! Your new book is finally published! You're excited that your baby has hit the streets (or the Internet) and you can't wait to start pounding that virtual pavement and collecting the royalties. I know what you're thinking. You're an author, not a marketer. Not to worry. We have more than a decade of online book selling experience under our belts and we're going to teach you how to promote your book effectively online. And almost all of our techniques are FREE!

WHAT'S THE BIGGEST MISTAKE AUTHORS MAKE?

If you really want to sell books, don't do what most authors do: dump your book at a few websites and walk away, hoping it'll catch on some day. That just doesn't happen in the real world. Promoting your book online should be considered at least a part-time job. Highly successful authors spend more time promoting a book than they do writing it—a lot more.

Online book promotion is not only simple but, if you have a step-by-step, day-to-day marketing plan (this book!), it can also be a very artistic endeavor, which makes it fun for creative folks like authors (you!).

Here are some little-known, depressing factoids about the traditional publishing industry:

Traditional publishers use the profits from low- to mid-selling books to promote their best sellers. Many publish books by unknown authors, and then do nothing more than send out a couple dozen review copies in the hopes that one or two books by those unknowns might catch the eye of the public and media.

Even if you are lucky enough or talented enough to land a traditional contract, if your name isn't as well known as Stephen King or Tom Clancy, you will be

Dumping your book at a few websites and walking away pretty much guarantees your book will fail.

Angela Hoy and Richard Hoy

responsible for the majority, if not all, of the marketing activities for your book.

If you come up with some marketing ideas that were not offered in your contract, like a unique book tour, magazine ads, etc., you'll probably have to pay for them out of your own pocket.

If you ask your publisher to help you pay for those items, they'll probably refuse to do so. If you wanted them to help pay for your book promotion, you should have gotten that in writing in your contract. Problem is, troublesome new and unknown authors who demand those perks up front usually don't get traditional publishing contracts. Why should the publisher offer to pay money they know you are eventually going to spend for them later out of sheer desperation for sales?

None of the marketing activities you conduct and pay for when promoting your traditionally published book will entitle you to one penny more of the profits that you're already giving your traditional publisher (around 88%–94% for them vs. 6%–12% for you).

Okay, now that we have the depressing part over with, let's move on.

The book you're reading right now is Angela's 12th non-fiction title. She has written books for freelance writers and authors, for mothers wanting to attempt a vaginal birth after having a prior cesarean, for women who are facing an imminent divorce, a how-to craft book on reborn dolls (which has done very well on eBay, by the way—more on that later), and more. In the '90s, she published one of the very first electronic books (ebooks)—before “ebook” was a household word—and long before Stephen King ever thought of it. She simply started selling the MSWord file of one of her books online, and it was instantly successful. Why? 1. it was available for immediate delivery; 2. it was less expensive than the print version, and; 3. the customer didn't have to pay shipping. After spending so much time having booklets printed up at Kinko's, creating mailing labels, stuffing large envelopes, and taking daily trips to the post office, we sure wish we'd thought of selling books as electronic files sooner!

90 Days of Promoting Your Book Online

Angela then wrote the ebook How to Write, Publish & Sell Ebooks, which brought in more than $700 in sales on the first day she put it on her website! Nowadays, the more books she writes, the more money she makes. When you write multiple books targeting the same audience, you can expend the same amount of marketing effort as you would for one book, but you naturally sell more books. The more successful authors are those who promote multiple titles to the same audience. Yes, it really is that simple.

I know this is starting to sound like we're on the pep-squad so we'll stop. We just want you to know that we know what we're talking about and what we do isn't that difficult, or even expensive, despite what some people and companies would like you to believe. Those people and companies are the ones selling high-priced marketing products and services for authors... and often coercing authors into spending more money than they will ever make on any resulting book sales. The tips in this book can lead to far more book sales than spending hundreds or thousands of dollars on promotional coffee mugs, book fairs, or expensive magazine or newspaper ads.

Think about it. If you paid someone to publish your book, your publisher is profiting from book sales. So why would they charge an author thousands of dollars for a marketing product or service designed to sell books? If a fee-based publishing company had complete confidence in a product or service designed to sell their own books, wouldn't they be giving it away free? They don't and here's why. They know they're going to make far more money from authors paying for those services than they will from any resulting book sales.

For the purposes of this book, we're assuming you, like us, have a real job and that you don't have eight hours a day to spend promoting your own book. Some of the daily tasks might take an hour or less but others will take longer. We suggest setting aside a specific period of time each day to do the steps in this book. Angela's best time for writing and marketing is the first hour or two of each morning, depending on her planned tasks for that day. That enables her to accomplish her priorities before the rest of the day railroads her down different paths (like answering email, formatting books for other authors, homeschooling our two youngest children, etc.).

Angela Hoy and Richard Hoy

There are also “ongoing” marketing tasks that are noted in some chapters with this symbol: +

Those ongoing tasks are summarized near the end of this book (see "AFTER 90 DAYS: YOUR BOOK'S DAILY MARKETING PLAN"). Those marketing activities can and should be conducted on a continuing basis. So if you do everything this book recommends, you'll be promoting your book far longer than just 90 days.

Let's get started, shall we?

90 DAYS OF PROMOTING YOUR BOOK ONLINE: Your Book's Daily Marketing Plan. Promote Your New Book ~ OR ~ Breathe Life Back Into an Older One! Do you want to generate sales for your book, but just aren't sure what steps to take? This is for you! Promoting your book online should be considered at least a part-time job. Highly successful authors spend more time promoting a book than they do writing it - a lot more. We know what you're thinking. You're an author, not a marketer. Not to worry! We have more than a decade of successful online book selling experience under our belts and we're going to teach you how to promote your book effectively online...and almost all of our techniques are FREE! WHAT'S THE BIGGEST MISTAKE AUTHORS MAKE? If you really want to sell books, don't do what most authors do - dump your book at a few websites and walk away, hoping it'll catch on some day. That just doesn't happen in the real world. Don't hide your words from the world! Promote it aggressively using the easy tips and schedule provided in this book! Online book promotion is not only simple but, if you have a step-by-step, day-to-day marketing plan (this book!), it can also be a very artistic endeavor, which makes it fun for creative folks like you! Yes, online book promoting can be EASY and FUN! Let us show you how, from Day 1 through Day 90...and beyond!

90 Days of Promoting Your Book Online

Order the complete book from

Booklocker.com

<http://www.booklocker.com/p/books/5948.html?s=pdf>

or from your favorite neighborhood
or online bookstore.