The New Creation is the shedding of out-dated concepts and teachings that we inherited through the ages from those who came before us who, because of reincarnation, were really us after all. We were not as enlightened then and most true teachings - reincarnation, God Within and our double evolution - were misinterpreted. The New Creation is the understanding of these teachings. We learn of Seven Great Gifts, Seven Daily Virtues and Seven New Concepts.

Chapter Three

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE NEW CREATION

We were still looking through the photograph albums. I came across one of the Neil Armstrong Museum in Wapakoneta, Ohio. We had been to see it while visiting relatives that lived in the area.

“Neil,” I said, “I’m going to tell you something that you probably don’t know. Your dad and I were always very interested in the space flights. You were named Neil Edwin after Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin. Actually you were conceived the first night man walked on the moon and you were born the second time they were on the moon, so it seemed quite appropriate to name you this. We had been married for twenty years by the time you were born and everyone kidded us that they had to ‘tip the moon’ before we had a child.”

“Wow, I didn’t know all that. So that’s why I was named Neil Edwin. I always kind of wondered,” Neil said.

We also had relatives in Florida and had been there to see the liftoff of one of the Columbia shuttle flights (can’t remember which one). Neil was about 12 years old at this time.

“Do you remember the liftoff?” I asked Neil.

“Yes, I do. But being so young I wanted to see the area again, so a couple of years ago I was sent to Florida through my work and I went and toured it again,” Neil said.

“It really was an exciting time to live through. When I was a child I couldn’t have imagined anything like that happening,” I said.

“I know, you want to contact the TimeTraveler and find out about previous space flights in our universe, don’t you?” Neil asked.

“You’re reading my mind again,” I said. “Let’s go back in time and find out more about them.”

Spacemen’s Colonization of Earth

The total Bible could be said to be an historic account of spacemen’s colonization of planet earth. It is their colony and they love it, but feel so totally dismayed by what has happened to it that they simply must clean it up. Wouldn’t we on earth do that with a satellite we put up in space for people to live on? If it got so polluted and the people were unable to get along and it was on a self-destruct course, I’m sure our government would take the people off and do all it could to clean it up. The next ones to be allowed to live there would be of a much higher caliber human – much more evolved. They wouldn’t be perfect, but would be far ahead of the animalistic, materialistic ones who had inhabited it.

To get a better picture of earth’s history, visualize it as a satellite that has been formed in earth’s image and left to evolve as earth was. It is as easy for us to get to as it is for us to get to our moon today. We would watch and help it as long as it needed us. Is this not true?

Spacemen Went Through Same Stages of Evolution as Earth

Spacemen are highly evolved, but went through the same stages of evolution that mankind on earth is facing. Likewise parents they know that the children (humans) must find things out for themselves so they can learn. They know they cannot, must not, take this away from humanity. It is against universal law. They are always there watching, giving guidance when needed and stepping in during emergencies to avert disaster, the same way parents would do with their children. The whole universe is patterned thusly, has ever been and will ever be. Know this – that we are not alone.

Humanity is progressing much faster now and seventh root race egos are clamoring for the right to come into incarnation. They need to have the new teachings to precede them. Most of humanity now is of the fifth root race. Some are of the sixth root race and those waiting up there to return are of the sixth and seventh root races. Those of the seventh know they have a long wait because many more of the sixth root race have the first opportunity. It will be far into the future before the seventh can begin to come in, but remember they do not consider time up there, and even though they know they must await certain events, they are eager to return and try again so they can “get on with it,” a little impatient, so to speak.

The word death frightens many, but the death of the people who will not come out of the darkness of old concepts and come into the light should not be feared but rather looked upon as another chance to wipe the slate clean and try again. They will get a second chance and a third and so on through reincarnation. The space fathers are above earth waiting and watching and they know each one who refuses to see the truth. So the death of their form at the time of the cataclysms will be an act of mercy as they are at a standstill in evolution. They may as well leave that incarnation and return to the inner planes where they will receive much help and wisdom, so that the next incarnation will be more fruitful.

Humanity Needs to Understand that God is Part of All

The Creator is over the whole universe. He is the whole universe. He is every atom and molecule of everything. None are apart from Him, nor can they ever be, as they are the Creator. This is so important to stress. The real true divine Creator is a part of all, and each of us is related to that all. These New Millennium NoteBooks are not trying to take the Creator from anyone; they are trying to give the Creator to everyone. People should not think of the Creator as a sleight of hand magician. They should think of Him as an intelligent, thinking, reasoning presence on whom they can depend to always be fair and impartial in His acts. He must be; He is universal law.

Progress Is Mathematically Timed

All is on a mathematical time scale and these new teachings are needed and necessary with no time lost, as the Bible story cannot be taken literally anymore. People are far too intelligent; but there needs to be the true teachings to replace these tales. One of the true teachings is, of course, the truth of reincarnation as the basis or foundation for all. It is time for humanity to understand this and many more facts that they were not evolved enough previously to understand. Also the concept of the God Within must be understood, not an external God sitting on a throne up in the sky somewhere – “The Kingdom of God is within.”

The Ten Commandments are misinterpreted teachings of the churches. It simply never happened that way. The same is true for sixty percent of the Bible. It is a collection of tales. Would it make sense to continue to teach children with fairy tales as they grow into adulthood? But this is what the churches continually feed to questioning humanity. Until these teachings are updated, there can be very little evolutionary progress made by man.

The Biblical stories that amounted to fairy tale quality do have a true foundation in fact. For instance, humanity can now understand that the splitting of the divine spark was the real meaning of the story of Adam and Eve. This story should not be taken literally because it was seen and sent down and related from an overview. Eve was no more pulled out of Adam than Adam was out of Eve. They were split or pulled apart, if you want to use the term pulled, but it really was just a matter of not being allowed to reincarnate together on the earth plane ever again. Adam stands for the male half and Eve the female half of the divine spark. When the Bible said that He took a rib from Adam and formed it into Eve, it was not talking about the physical body. That physical body developed long before that at the split of the amoeba into male and female at the same time the split into the animal kingdom took place. Those forms grew into male and female, at least most of them did. Some of them did not. It depended on the split of that amoeba and the way the cells divided.

Having only one half of the divine spark in incarnation at one time has worked much better. There are still many problems. Each individual has his own identity problem, due to being only half of his whole self that is able to function on the physical plane. The half in incarnation must learn to listen to his soul, his other half which stayed behind to guide the lifetime from behind the scene.

Some of the souls leading the churches came in with every intention of breaking through the hold of misinterpretation that the churches have woven around themselves, but they were not strong enough. People should use common sense and a reasoning mind when reading the Bible. Some of the misinterpretations are as follows:

Baptism

The act of baptism was meant to be a symbolic start of the intention to try to achieve an integrated or synthesized state (the joining of your higher and lower natures). It never was meant that baptism had to happen or you would be condemned to hell forever no matter how hard you tried and how well you succeeded in joining your higher and lower selves. Would this make sense? What possible good can a few drops of water on the head, or even a full immersion do for the atomic powerhouse inside that head? The full immersion might cool the external area, but other than that, how can it possibly have any effect, even if the one performing it is a minister or priest. He or she is no different than you are. They are not in any way capable of washing away your “sins.” The only one’s “sins” they can have any effect on are their own misdeeds against universal law. This, by the way, is the true meaning of the word “sin” – a misdeed against universal law.

The only way baptism could possibly have any meaning is, as said previously, as a symbolic start on the quest for joining your dual natures and finding the intentions of your soul when you entered the earth plane. But baptism is not necessary. The start on this journey is purely personal and needs to have no outward symbolism. It must be an individual search and accomplishment.

Communion

Communion is also symbolic. It is a symbol of wanting to be like the Christ was. It does bring people to the spiritual thought table more often than they would come if they did not have communion, but it is symbolic. Some churches believe it is the actual body and blood of the Christ who was crucified on the cross. Even if the minister or priest who blesses this bread and wine has the powers of the Christ, there is no way that it can be the body or the blood of the Christ. It is symbolic. Please realize this with an intelligent, reasoning mind and accept it as symbolic and go on from there.

The act of taking communion is significant of the joining of the higher and lower natures into a synthesized, total being. This is when there should be a celebration, as those in the higher planes rejoice when they see this take place.

Communion should be a ritual that is only allowed after the higher and lower natures have been brought together. This was the original, true meaning of communion, the bread being symbolic of the lower nature and the blood symbolic of the higher nature. Only the individual will be aware of when the synthesization takes place. The celebration of communion is a very personal act and his conscience should guide him as to when he can participate in it.

Born Again

Those leaders who stand in front of their congregations and exhort them to give their life to the Lord and be “born again” are bringing much terrible karma on themselves for this is the biggest sin that one could perpetrate against another.

The true meaning of being “born again” is a “rebirth into continuity.” A true rebirth of continuity will be painful, but will be from deep within, instigated by one’s own soul – an esoteric happening not visible on the surface to those he meets.

A false happening of being “born again” will be but an exoteric display, perhaps a superior acting job on the part of an individual for the sake of the picture of himself that he shows to the rest of humanity.

The true meaning of being born again has to do with the rebirthing process of all components that make up the earth plane. Let me try to explain. This is what everything is, a component making up the whole – the splitting of the atom. As the Creator shattered Himself into individual sparks and entered human bodies, so also does the human, at the same stage in evolution, shatter himself. This shattering releases the human’s former incarnations to enter the bodies of micro men, who are the teachers and guides of our inner contact. An entities’ former incarnations are in time and space and, up until this shattering, are in a vacuum inside the mind of the human. The shattering allows them to take form and rise up and expand into the universe. It frees all the knowledge and wisdom gained in these other lives, making this wisdom available for others to use. This also begins the growing and evolving process for these past incarnations. This is the true meaning of the term to be “born again” for which the correct wording is a “rebirth into continuity.”

Our Creator remembers the original implosion and subsequent explosion. This was His rebirth into continuity. Without it He would be nothing. He would never have existed as a perfect atom to then further creation by instigating this process in everything that came after in all solar systems, galaxies and universes. This rebirth process must follow exactly in all living things in the Creator’s span of time and space.

His universe is on the outside layer of time at this particular place in time. It will go into the inner layers when His time span is up. But nevertheless, if each one does not experience this rebirth into continuity himself or herself they will have to suffer the experiences over again. The original experience is painful. The original birthing process is painful, not only to the Creator, but also to the created.

We are the created. We have our own memories of the original explosion in our core. If we could but for a moment relive this by “remembering,” it would encourage us to aid in this rebirth taking place in this time frame, so that it would not be necessary to go through this traumatic experience again. Those in whom this rebirth into continuity has taken place know and are at ease with the fact that they never have to experience the “original happening,” (Biblical “original sin”), again. This is what is meant by rebirth into the spirit or being born again. The fundamentalist churches are making a mockery of this saying. This is why it is better to use the words rebirth into continuity. When it is thoroughly understood, those who are making a mockery of the process will realize that they have not truly experienced it and will have to experience the trauma of the original birth again.

Each time they have to repeat the process, the goal becomes more elusive as the wrong interpretation becomes more ingrained into their core and the correct explanation moves further into time and space away from them. This rebirth into continuity will take place in a life only when it is desired by the individual himself. If forced to happen by an eloquent minister or friends and relatives putting pressure on one, great harm is done to an individual. People should contemplate these words and as the time comes to choose the leaders of our lands and growth processes and guidance of any kind, please apply the criteria explained in this message of rebirth into continuity.

The Crucifixion

The spiritual progress of earth has slowed down to the point of almost being stopped. The door was closed and locked after Jesus was put to death on the cross. Instead of glorifying Him by their worship, the churches have made a mockery of His ordeal and reduced His incarnation to one that may have done more harm than good. In doing this, everything He attempted to do was undone. This cannot happen again.

The evolution of humanity received its severest setback when the crucifixion of Jesus was misinterpreted as being an act of salvation for humanity. This concept must be replaced with that of each person being responsible for his own growth. “Salvation” means simply growing and learning the truth of man’s existence. This is the only way to “salvation.” Saving the soul is not the problem. The soul cannot be lost, it is never lost! The goal is for the growth of that soul through learning experiences. Education of the soul is the only way to “salvation” of the soul, but it needs to be education as to the truths of man’s divine heritage.

The Plan for Humanity

The progress of the race was determined to be going according to its time plan when, in the third century B.C., a delegation was sent to earth from Darius to judge it and ways were thought of at that time to relate to humanity their origins. This was the plan that Jesus carried through. It was realized later that it took place too early. Many plans have been tried and scrapped since then.

There has been no attempt since then to tell humanity about their origins as it was determined that the genes that were infused into the race were like time-delay capsules. This was not intentional, but nevertheless this is the result of the mating. These time-delays have been twice as slow in releasing their built-in knowledge as they would have been on the planet they came from, due to the dense animal bodies into which they were inseminated. The knowledge is just beginning to explode inside some people now like the first stage of a time-release aspirin. Those in whom this first release has taken place must pursue more knowledge. They must attain that next time-release; they must always strive for higher releases. It is almost like being hooked on drugs, so to speak, as it becomes something we cannot live without, this knowledge, this thirsting after information as to our origins and also our ultimate goal.

The first releases have taken place and many are nearing the time for the second release of the time capsule. There are a few in whom the third explosion has taken place. It is the releasing of the third stage that indicates to those on the higher planes when one is ready for more information about their beginnings. Many are nearing this and the information must be available to those seeking. Pioneers need to break new trails, new paths. Some of the early information to come onto the earth plane dealt with the transformation of attitudes. Now the truth of man's divine heritage needs to be known to help the attitudes prevail.

The truth is all so simple that one wonders how man can have messed it up so badly. It is the utter rejection of life on other planets in other solar systems that is the basic cause of continuing ignorance. This will change in the near future and things will happen to speed up enlightenment. The truth must be available as this is going to shake everyone's foundation. This will be a big test for most of humanity.

Each stage of growth is definitely a part of the overall plan for planet earth. Each stage has been fulfilled pretty much on schedule until now. This last part of the plan has not materialized according to the time span allotted to it. This is the direct fault of the churches. They have taken teachings that the space fathers gave to humanity in the cave man stage of evolution and never let these teachings keep pace with evolving humanity. Consequently, today they are basing their teachings on what is equal to a fairy tale for children with a hint of right or wrong action in it. The ostrich can only keep his head buried in the sand for so long – humanity also. They simply will have to face the fact of their beginnings and that they have believed fairy tales, if they really honestly do believe them. They are doing much harm by holding back the evolving man from reaching his full potential of a divine soul. This is the ultimate goal for humanity.

Principles of Companionship and Personhood

Humanity is beginning to get a grasp on the principles of companionship and personhood (replacing the words fellowship and brotherhood which both have male connotations).

These form the foundation for all to base their lives on. When this is the compelling ideal behind all action, then this universal law is working to its highest attainment. The ideas of pride and egotism and individualistic, separative concepts have been so thoroughly instilled that man is really facing a tough battle to eliminate these ideas. The movement into the age of divine inheritance has to get started now. It should have been able to start with the churches, but this didn't happen. The word Christian does not denote the Christ Consciousness as it should. These new teachings are for each individual to study, examine, ponder on and synthesize as he will.

The Law of Cause and Effect

What humans think is fair and just will not be what is so, because of the law of cause and effect (karma) spreading over all previous incarnations on this planet, not just the present lifetime. They simply must understand this, and not just actions but also thoughts are taken into consideration. They write their own script after all.

Fear of the Future

There is no progress made when humanity fears its future. Until now that future has been a great unknown to mankind. Once mankind gets over the initial shock of thinking of what is ahead of them, they will be able to set better goals and work harder to attain them. As it is now, if one thinks that when he “dies” that all is ended, then his attitude is, “Why bother to be good? Live it up and enjoy and make no improvements; what’s the use, when you’re gone, you’re gone!” The attitude of those who believe in heaven as a place of eternal rest is a little different, but still does not inspire much growth.

Visionaries

The visions that so many are seeing today are seen correctly, but the interpretation of the visions is what is usually wrong. The interpretation is always colored by the individual’s personality and environment. It can’t help but be.

The visionaries in Biblical days had the same problem. They, in fact, had greater error in the interpretation than those of today. The events that eventually took place in the New Testament were foretold by prophets (channels) many centuries before they happened.

In the Book of Revelations, the visions of John were misinterpreted by him and even worse misinterpretations were made down through the years by so-called Biblical scholars. There has been much more significance attached to them than should have been. This is true of most visions even today. So many of them are strictly personal – in other words for that particular soul to use as a guide in his own personal life but, because of an inflated sense of worth, they think they need to give them out to the world. They were then given to communicators and repeated word of mouth before being gathered into book form.

The truly divine seers will not shout their visions to all. Nostradamus was one. Edgar Cayce was another. Jesus was one of the greatest. Some were capable and did see visions, but chose not to let them be known. Confucius was one of these. The misinterpretation of most of the visions and prophecies in the Bible was due to excitement at the time of the vision, and lack of knowledge of metaphysical events. Misinterpretation by translators added much to the confusion also.

For instance, the Holy Grail was a prophecy that was greatly blown out of proportion. It was given as a guide to a certain knight as a suggestion of a place where he would find personal happiness. The vision had shown him sitting in an abode in the south of France drinking from a cup and eating, with a feeling of great peace. His guide and teacher was letting him know that he had relatives in that area and had also lived there previously (in a past life) and would find peace and contentment there in this life. Thinking that he was more important to the world than he was, he immediately told all who would listen, that the Holy Chalice used at the Last Supper would be found there and organized a group to go and search in the south of France with him. Due to misinterpreting the vision, he disrupted many lives for many years searching for something that wasn't there. The chalice existed, to be sure, but not in the south of France and what purpose would finding it have served anyway? It was just a drinking cup.

The revelations of John were misinterpreted, as stated before. They were meant for humanity, but were filtered through him more like a nightmare than a beautiful vision that they were supposed to be. The dreams that many could write down today could be taken and made to apply to something that was to happen two thousand years from now and, because there was such store set by them, they would come to pass. Thoughts are things; you shape your own world and with so many reading the revelations of John and giving such power to them, they did happen and will continue to happen if not stopped being used.

The only visions or prophecies that should be made public are the ones that show a better future or some great stride forward in evolution as a goal for man to build his world upon, the rock for his foundation. As long as prophecies of doom continue to be written and published for so many people to read and dwell on and fear, they will be brought to pass simply because of the mind power given them.

The Book of Revelation is one that should have been deleted many, many years ago, but still it is read and dwelt on, more now than ever. It needs to be replaced with visions of a brighter, more hopeful future so that this is what is used for building the new world.

Prophecies can be used and should be used only as things to be on guard against, evils that could happen, but not to be dwelt on and feared, only so the indications of these evils may be recognized and stopped in their tracks before they do become facts. Mind is the builder; thoughts are things. What a mass thought can do is enormous. If it is of doom and catastrophe, then this is what will take place. If it is a thought-form of beauty and goodness and hope for a better future, then this is what will shape up. Watch your thoughts, humanity; you may think yourself out of existence! It could happen!

God Within

When will humanity accept their potential? If they could only realize what they are capable of, what great powers of the mind they do possess, they would realize more fully that they are indeed God Within themselves. They are belittling our Creator when they do not develop and use this mind power that He instilled in all of them. They are certainly not using the glory He bestowed on them. They are but poor imitations of what He expected of them. It is ultimately their own progress in evolution they are hurting. Each individual is hurting all others and the Creator also when they refuse to open their minds to the great glory of which they are capable and start believing these truths.

A major portion of humanity will never be able to understand these new teachings. They simply are not evolved enough. When the time of separation comes, they still will not understand. The time-release capsules work much slower in some than others and the teachings cannot be forced on them. They must awaken enough to feel that there has to be more to life than what they've seen of it. This thought is the one that follows through each plane of each planet's evolutionary track. It is the time release stage of the imaginary capsule of outer space genes that was discussed earlier.

The New Creation

The human heart is tied emotionally to the Biblical story. Whether we know it consciously or not, we quickly find out we are when we try to break free of former beliefs. This is not just a result of this lifetime, we must remember, but of every incarnation we have had in the last 2000 years.

Each religion embraces part of the truth, but only part. This is not the direct fault of any on earth today; but it is the fault, indirectly, of all on earth today because we were all here on earth, as other entities, when the misinterpretations crept in. Therefore, we all are equally to blame and we all are equally capable of correcting the wrong teachings. As a matter of fact, we helped write and shape and form the Biblical story. We must now help write and shape and form the New Creation.

Each Must Help Form the New Creation

The New Creation is the understanding of the new teachings. It is time to move on. Each stage of evolvement for humanity must change. It cannot possibly stay in the same mold that it has been in; it must continue to change. The Creator's world is changing constantly at every second. How can people believe that they can just stand still? They cannot! Progress has been made, and more will be made. The more that awaken at this time, the faster this progress will be made, and the diseases and sicknesses of humanity will then have a better chance of being eased.

Any creative enterprise that is undertaken is doing exactly that and this fact must be kept in mind by anyone who attempts to create an item that will be read, used, looked at or listened to. Take for instance books; non-fiction books are the ones that will have the most effect because people realize to a certain extent when reading fiction that it is make-believe. I believe that authors and publishers should take responsibility for what is put before the public as this is what is shaping the future. Without free thinkers, the evolution of humanity would progress nowhere. It could even conceivably regress and will if some fundamentalist religions have their way. It should frighten and anger people to realize that closed minds could undo all the good of the one teacher who did indeed enter to “save” them; but “save” them by trying to educate and enlighten them, not “save” them by being crucified on a cross. The only way any of this can be accomplished is through education; early education is the fastest way.

Jesus was indeed humanities’ “savior” at that time period, but evolution continues and a new “savior” is needed now. How long can one man’s teachings stretch to “save” people? He, himself has gone past the “teachings” he once gave and is trying and has been trying to update them. As he, himself, has grown and evolved, he attempts to pass on new concepts to humanity to update his previous ones.

Wouldn’t a professor in a high school or college do the same thing? As they upgrade and update their own education and learn new theories and concepts and experiment and test and prove them, wouldn’t they try to share these with their students? To not do this would not make a very wise teacher, would it? Doesn’t humanity think that the Christ is wise enough to want to update outmoded concepts that He once taught to His people.

This upsets Him, that they won't give Him credit for being that wise of a teacher. These teachings coming through at long last are the best effort so far by the Christ at updating humanities' outgrown "clothing." How long can they go around with clothing that is too small, too tight; that constricts and binds them and keeps them from expanding? How also can they ever hope to see Him if they do not keep pace themselves with His own growth and evolvment? People must use their intelligent, reasoning mind and expand the cells within their universe to take advantage of their unused gifts.

The Ideal Role of Churches

One thing the churches are doing right is that they are serving the purpose of keeping humanity reminded that there is more to them than just their materialistic everyday lives. So even though they are not always able to help people find their higher self, they at least keep them aware that there is a higher self.

In the restructuring that must take place in our lives and in society, there needs to be an understanding of the role the churches will have in the new picture. The creative channel is available to all. When it opens up in an individual this is their rebirth into continuity. They will no longer need to have anyone else find the truth for them, because one person's truth can never be another's.

Remember, each individual is his own universe; therefore, each individual has his own university inside himself. If this beam of spirit has not been contacted inside their own being, they are not attending their own university when they sit in church. They are attending the University of the Leader of the church. The church should serve, instead, as a graduate school for the individual universities.

The most important decision one can make is to follow his own feelings as he is the God Within. But at the same time, all must abide by universal laws at all times. The two should not ever be in conflict. If so, the God Within has not been truly reached.

New Creation Supposed to Start with Birth of Jesus

The boxed-in effect that many feel today is because the minds of many need to have the expansion of wondering about things. The world as we know it cannot continue. It must expand outside its narrow confines. The coming changes must take place for this expansion to take place. The season when all will know that the time is short is soon to be upon the land. The weather patterns are becoming so erratic as to alarm many. This is only one of the signs. The openness of men's minds to the possibility of other dimensions is another. People need to have this material now, as the events which will foretell Christ's appearance are taking place even now.

When the Christ returns again, there will be no powerful organizations allowed to bastardize His coming. This is why the hierarchy is coming in advance. They are already here but have not come out in the open as it is not yet time. All those you come in contact with may be part of the plan. This must constantly be a question in your mind. When events don't go the way you think they should, there may be a reason behind it that cannot be shown at the moment. The plan will unfold in its own time cycle. One part has to be held up until another segment has fallen into place.

Windows on the Past

The new plan is unfolding over the whole planet at once. It is very intricate and involves many more people on both sides, earth plane and inner planes, than anyone can imagine. When you read or hear about events in any part of the world, ponder on whether this is part of the plan or could be part of the plan. If you could get a picture of the size of the plan for planet earth, you may be able to get a glimpse of how large the overall plan for the universe is.

Chapter Four

OLD TESTAMENT GIVES SEVEN GREAT GIFTS

It was Neil's first Christmas in his first apartment in California by himself. It was so small he couldn't find room for a tree so he put a small one on top of the TV. He had bought his first furniture – a couch and chair with a big footstool. The outfit took up most of the living room area.

My husband and I had come from Colorado to California to be there with him for Christmas. "I see you found room for a tree after all. You had said on the phone there wasn't any place to put one," I said.

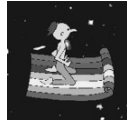

Neil's first Christmas tree

"Don't you think that was pretty clever of me?" he said laughing.

"Actually it was. Of course it's not the size of the tree or where it's at that's important – it's what the gifts are that is important," I said, laughing also. "You know, I really shouldn't be laughing at saying that. I was told by the TimeTraveler that we were given seven gifts by our Creator and that they were very important," I said, suddenly serious. "Would you like to hear about these seven gifts we were all given?" I asked Neil.

"I think that would be very interesting and appropriate at this time of year. Let's hear about them," replied Neil.

The Seven Gifts

A person must not try to assimilate too much at one time or they will be overwhelmed. One small step at a time will be the way, through the understanding of the Seven Great Gifts, the Seven Daily Virtues and the Seven New Concepts. The starting point is logically the Seven Gifts, but these must be interwoven with the Seven Virtues and the Seven Concepts. These will tie together into a philosophy for living in today's world. The Seven Gifts were bestowed on humanity at the beginning of the creation of humanity. These are:

1. Reincarnation
2. Free Will
3. Precocious Intent
4. The Prophets

5. Divine Intervention
6. Karma
7. Universal Laws.

1. Reincarnation

The first of these seven great gifts is Reincarnation. Of all the seven gifts, Reincarnation is really the greatest gift our Creator ever gave to man. A large majority of people are rejecting this concept and thereby harming the evolution of their souls.

Following are two simplistic explanations of Reincarnation:

- a. Reincarnation Compared to Farmer's Crops – Seeds are planted causing them to grow but if they aren't properly cared for, they die. The weeds choke them out. The next springtime the farmer plants again and knows what not to do this time and they grow better, but there are still lessons to be learned to improve the crop each spring. In winter, (between incarnations) the farmer ponders over what went wrong the previous time he planted and figures out a way to keep it from happening the next time so crops will grow better. If a crop, say for instance corn, is planted in the same field where it was diseased the previous year, then it will almost certainly get the same disease again. The same is true of humans. If they reenter earth in the same locality as before, the energy of their thoughts and attitudes are in the ground and will attract them to the same attitudes they had in previous lives.

- b. Reincarnation Compared To Flowers – The flowers that must be replanted each year are less highly evolved than those that come up on their own each spring. This can be compared to humans, who up to level seven (mind dimension 7 or planet 7) come back as different individual personalities until they reach their conglomerate or seedcore at the seventh level. At that point, when they draw back into the black hole (at death) they will automatically come back from the same seedcore working on group projects. The process is similar to perennials that die in the fall, go back into the black hole (ground), rejuvenate and store in the seed that energy needed to bloom again the next spring, exactly the same as humans.

The basic fact of Reincarnation is a truth which can and will eventually be scientifically proven. Science will soon make a discovery that will prove it once and for all on a scientific level and humanity will be unable to refute it any longer. It will have to do with atomic matter and the fact that there is a limited amount available for use in any given universe. This atomic matter is the substance which is used for impregnating the female of the species that is found in the male. It is the means used whereby a spirit can find entry into the body when it is born.

This is very complicated and I'll attempt to explain. The original genes, impregnated into the animal bodies in the beginning, insured the safe occupation of that animal body by a spirit. If that original gene is missing by some freak accident, then a baby born of that man's semen will be uninhabitable by a divine spark. It will live a short time this way, but will eventually die and decompose to dust, and there will be no eternal life for that one, as there was no eternal spirit ever in that body. This could be scientifically discovered if enough testing was done on the bodies of deceased babies, but it is very difficult to receive permission for this testing from the parents. Therefore, scientific proof of Reincarnation is being delayed, but it will come eventually. When it does, Reincarnation will be the first spiritual fact found able to be proven by science.

When the forms are born without this gene that means the reservoir of atomic matter is getting low. It means that it is time to give those souls who are ready, through much hard work and study, the opportunity to enter into a physical body again. When large groups of people starve to death on the earth plane, the energy being taken up by those inhabiting the starving bodies will be used to send back in more evolved souls.

The reservoir of matter is being depleted. There is this limit of divine sparks and it is getting close to being reached. Remember that the inner planes are filled with past incarnations who are still in time and space, but cannot return. They are here, but they are like a barren woman and cannot conceive on their own. They were begotten by the seedcore, but cannot beget another personality for themselves. Only the seedcore can do this, and there are a limited number of seedcores, even though there are millions and millions of entities on the inner planes.

When too many physical forms are born an automatic process begins that makes some of those bodies uninhabitable. There is this law of checks and balances on everything in the universe. The only way to accomplish this, as just discussed, is through a depletion of the divine gene in the human male. All else may be perfect in an impending birth, but if there is not enough atomic matter to sustain life in this form, the form is destroyed before it is understood why in such cases. There is always much weeping and sorrow with miscarriages and still births and even crib deaths, and this is understandable. If people could only understand the consequences if these forms were kept alive, they would not grieve so much.

2. Free Will

The second greatest gift our Creator gave to humanity is Free Will. The experiment of Free Will for planet earth is considered a failure. Not having been tried before on any other planet, the results could not have been foretold. All prophecy is at the mercy of Free Will. It can be seen what is going to happen or is scheduled to happen, but the one factor that cannot be predicted is man's Free Will. This has made guidance of planet earth extremely difficult. Tight Reins are kept in all Possible Areas

The time of Lemuria was when man discovered that he did have Free Will and for a long time he exercised it with no restraint. This was, of course, before he gained a conscience, but Free Will continued to be a major factor in his life ever since. It still is and it is still being abused.

The counteraction of this gift will be accomplished by the use of self-esteem. Self-esteem is not self-aggrandizement, the glorifying of self. It is the balance point necessary, the half-way mark between the attitudes of self-hatred and self-pity and the opposite end of the scale, self-centeredness. Self-esteem is the state of having the utmost respect for one's self and at the same time, respect for all others' opinions. If you have no self-esteem, there is resentment of others instead of respect. Without self-esteem the God Within cannot express. This is where the human race is, either one side of this balance point or the other. It cannot seem to stay centered in this area. It always goes past the balance point.

Self-esteem is the goal for all humanity. It will be found that all dictators and arrogant, bossy, rude, and immature people lack self-esteem. All education needs to foster it in the individual. Self-esteem is the only way to make full and proper use of the gift of Free Will.

To be given Free Will and not be given, at the same time, the freedom to use it would be cruel and harsh. This is why imprisonment is so hard on humanity. If one did not have Free Will, then being locked up would not bother them. This is why it does no mental harm to put animals in cages. They are not of the divine spirit, so have not received these divine gifts of which Free Will is one.

If one were to list all areas where they feel totally free to do whatever they want with no thought of the outcome, they would find that there are actually very few areas where this is the case. There are always results that have to be considered and the minute this is thought of, then responsibility enters the picture. Having Free Will does not, and will not ever give us the freedom to do exactly as we please.

After being able to accept that Reincarnation is possible, the beginning seeker has to learn the responsibility that goes with having Free Will, the second gift we were blessed with. Another way to learn how to control this gift of Free Will, and to use it wisely, is through using the virtue of freedom (along with self-esteem) to explore it and at the same time experience the opposite side of the coin, which is imprisonment.

One way to explore it is as follows: (The following suggestion would not be applicable in our present day manufacturing plants because management would not allow it.) It seems the majority of people working in manufacturing plants are doing things mechanically. Their bodies have performed the task so many times they can “do it in their sleep.” The person’s mind is free to think of other things. He has delegated the job to the second level of his brain. At certain time periods he will need to call in the third level, say if his machine is not working properly, but for the most part, it is a second level task with the third level free.

The third mind level could be used for studying and training themselves in all manner of ways, in all fields of interest. For instance, one who was truly interested in learning more about computers, or crystals, or healing, or the great masters, could be doing this through the use of earphones, hearing lectures on their subject. They would go home at the end of their shift with more energy than when they started the day. The feeling of resentment of the wasted hours spent doing the same tedious task over and over would disappear. They would not dread getting up and going to work the next morning. They could choose their own course of study and with the cooperation of management, could apply for a new position and change jobs more often and stop the boredom.

Their choice of subject matter would be the using of their Free Will to study their field of interest. This would be stepping this gift of Free Will up to the implementing of occupational therapy, which would raise their consciousness and keep them growing. The manufacturing plants need to implement such a program. This would be considered a benefit to the workers and an incentive to them to improve their position, which would raise their level of self-esteem.

Free will is one gift that does not need to be proven scientifically. All humanity accepts and believes this truth, but has never thought of what life would be like if it were withdrawn. They need to prove this truth in their own world to themselves, because they are the only one who can control what is done by Free Will. No priest can control it, no spouse, no child, no parent – no one but they themselves!

If one could pretend that he is the Creator God, then one would realize that he has control over circumstances that previously he just accepted. Once this realization is made, it is hard to blame others for the events that take place in our lives. Perhaps you should put yourself above the world looking down only instead of pretending you're the Creator God, we want you to look at the situation from the perspective of your guide. He has at hand the goals and charts drawn up by the two of you before you incarnated. He also has the records of the overall time span of your spirit's many lives. After reviewing all factors and looking down on you frittering your life away, he, in his position of responsibility to you who are in his charge, decides some drastic action must be taken to help you wake up, so to speak, as to what you wanted to accomplish. If it takes a crippling accident, so be it. You must stay somewhat on schedule. If not, the next time around will have to be such a heavy-duty lifetime that it will appear hopeless before you start.

It's comparable to a child in school whose teachers continually pass him from grade to grade, although he has not thoroughly learned the basics. It will eventually catch up to him and there will be one grade where he will have to work very, very hard to try to make it up so he can move on. It is exactly the same with souls in incarnation, although they do have more Free Will than a child in school. The teachers in school have a bit more control over their students than the guides have, but the teacher must be a caring teacher or it will make no difference. The same is true for your guides and teachers in the higher planes. The more effort their charges put forth, the more help and support they give them. Believe me, it makes the task more interesting and fulfilling for your guides.

The days that one walks the earth are numbered for each lifetime. There is an overall time outline for the total trip through the earth's twelve planes and the teachers and guides will see to it that somehow the one in their charge does not fall too far behind.

When teaching this concept to the beginning seeker, they should be encouraged to put themselves into the play-acting role of the teacher/guide and get the over-all perspective. A play could be written with the seeker first playing one part, then another. In fact, the seeker should be encouraged to write his own play. The paper must be written first from the angle of the seeker. After he has accomplished this, a sort of monologue, he then writes from the angle of the guide in a dialogue format. It will be amazing what can be uncovered in this manner. This will help the seeker bring forward thoughts in his own mind of what his intended goals were. This must be basic – this searching for our goal, or at least realizing that there is a goal. Remember, the Creator God decided to let his children have more chances to prove how much they could grow. This is the over-all purpose, after all, of Reincarnation.

Picture yourself as the Creator God and watch those people you put on your little world. You have given them this new gift of Free Will, this new toy, to see what they will do with it. Will they abuse it? Yes, at first, very much so. To try and control them, you give them a conscience. This helps, but not enough to stop much of the misuse of Free Will. It still hasn't stopped the misuse. Everything you've done since then has been in the area of trying to get your people to take responsibility for the actions they are taking because of Free Will.

They eventually start growing up a little, but it is so hard for them to discipline themselves. If someone would just do it for them, they think, how much easier it would be. So they give the power to tell them what to do and what not to do to others whom they call priests, ministers, rabbis, etc. "Ah," they think, "now all responsibility is out of my hands. It is all on the shoulders of the priests or ministers or rabbis. Now it's their fault if I do something I shouldn't. They didn't teach me right or tell me I shouldn't do such an act."

You see this happening in your little world and think, "Oh boy, now what? They're pretty sly, these ones I put down there. I'll have to think up another way to get them to take responsibility for themselves. We'll go to plan B which is to send a messenger down in person to try to get the truth across to them, that they simply aren't growing at all when they let another take responsibility for their actions. This simply can't go on."

Some heed the messenger's words and things get a little better, but then they turn in a different direction. You, as Creator God, have to come up with plan C. What's it going to be? Think about it. Whatever you come up with has probably been tried before by those guiding humanity and has failed. This new plan had better not fail. Things are in pretty bad shape down there. Would you take away their Free Will, that precious gift? By this time, even though you would like to, you are only able to take it away in a limited manner. Nevertheless, you would do what you could to eliminate Free Will as much as possible. One way to do this would be through their economy. A downturn in this area certainly would have the effect of putting the brakes on Free Will. One way to make the economy worse would be through the weather patterns. This would put hardships on them. Aha! They are growing more responsible aren't they? They're starting to think about what they've been doing with all the freedom they had to use their Free Will, and are being much more mature about it.

You, as the Creator God have discovered that you made a few goofs here and there; that this kingdom would have worked better with a built-in restraint on Free Will. It is too late now. The only way to incorporate this into humanity is through education of the young. Free Will is the one gift, above all others you wish you could take back. It is the direct cause of all humanities' woes at this time.

3. Precocious Intent

The third greatest gift our Creator gave to everyone was Precocious Intent. This is the ability to go into one's self and find out what one's goal or task for each incarnation is. Precocious intent is finding that center or seedcore within yourself by meditation and discovering what you really incarnated to work on and learn. Otherwise this incarnation can be compared to one who enters college and spends most of his time not knowing why he's there, only enjoying playing games such as football, etc., and having parties. He never majors in anything and when he graduates, finds that he has wasted the time spent.

An example of this would be a man working in a steel mill. He puts in long hard hours in front of a very hot furnace. When working, this man had many hours to think and meditate because he worked alone and the process didn't take much concentration. He worked there until retirement, at which time he had many long hours to sit around with nothing to do but meditate. But this man never really did any wondering about why he was on earth. He never questioned why he was doing what he was doing. He never asked about anything.

When he crossed over, he had many long hours to meditate; but now it was on why he didn't dig deeper into himself while on earth and why did he waste this glorious opportunity which would not come again for quite a while. He could have accomplished so much and done it so much faster while in incarnation. It would take ever so much longer now, in fact it couldn't be accomplished until he did reenter earth's plane. So many lessons cannot be learned except on the earth plane. This is why it is a school, a learning experience. This man did make some gains; he did not go backward; but the incarnation had the value of a one on a scale of one to ten, with ten being the mastering of the one overriding lesson that he entered to learn. Now he adds a heavier burden on himself for the next term in the school of life.

There will always be those whom we meet and intermix with frequently, but do not develop karmic ties with. They just seem to be on the same highway with us and our paths cross occasionally. These are the people that one feels comfortable with, but no strong ties are developed. Two such as this can and do marry and live a comfortable life, but not a life that's going to make any great strides forward as far as spiritual progress goes. They may even have agreed to this to provide an atmosphere of a certain type to bring in another soul with whom they both are acquainted and want to help. They sacrifice an incarnation of their own to help this other soul take a gigantic stride forward. They work on their own problems to be sure, and make gains, perhaps a five or six on our scale of one to ten, but the entity they set up the lifetime for will gain about a twenty. This is carefully planned and perhaps the next time the one who gained a twenty will cooperate with one of the other two and help him stride forward, then both of the two who advanced giant steps will do the same for the third. Then they will part and pursue their individual paths.

Perhaps you can see a similarity between this and what is done on the earth plane in politics, for instance, but the difference is one is a spiritual goal and the other a personal goal. The all-important goal is, of course, a spiritual one. One must have other goals also, personal, career related, etc. These are necessary, but secondary to the all-important one.

This should be taught in all institutions claiming to be spiritual or educational. The time when this was attempted to be taught, during Jesus' days, it was totally misinterpreted. The people took it to mean materialistic goals, even in those days, as of course they still do. When they think of the goal of their lives, they think in terms of a career with the most emphasis on how much money they can make and how big a house they can have, etc.

Personal goals and materialistic goals are not the same. One may feel he needs to learn humility and therefore does menial labor. This would be a spiritual goal. Being a doctor would be a personal goal. There are times when a personal goal must be reached in order to attain a spiritual goal. A good example of this is one who needs to work on compassion. One must necessarily enter a profession where much compassion will be demanded of him, such as the medical profession.

Being the head of a large corporation selling merchandise of some sort would be a materialistic goal. A materialistic goal will never be used in any way to further a spiritual goal, while a personal goal will be and is. Those who have only materialistic goals will register a minus on our so-called scale of one to ten.

This is all so simple yet so few people can grasp this concept. Those who do will ever be leaders in thinking and acting. This great gift of Precocious Intent has never been used by most of humanity. They are totally unaware that they possess it.

Realizing that we have goals, and searching for these goals, is the meaning of Precocious Intent. Our Creator bestowed this gift upon us to give direction to our lives. We have knowledge of our intentions programmed into our seedcore when we enter. Each incarnation should be an opportunity to further what progress was made in the previous lifetime. It is carefully planned as to what knowledge from previous lives will be kept veiled from an entity and what will not. There is far more that is not veiled than there is that is kept hidden. This is all part of the lesson plan, but because of the dual nature of humanity this Precocious Intent cannot be realized until the two selves, the higher and lower selves, are joined.

When making use of the gift of Precocious Intent, which is searching for our goals, one needs to apply the virtue of truth. This is the only way to take full advantage of this gift. If one realizes in his very being what he wants and needs to accomplish, and then denies this knowing, he is not going in the direction he charted for himself in previous incarnations.

Precocious intent should be used for uncovering that information you so carefully stored in the seedcore in previous lives. You have, in fact, charted your own course from the beginning of your existence, believe it or not, by this process. If your path has not gone in the direction it should have, it is because you are not making full use of this gift. To open up the seedcore of your being, it must first be acknowledged that you have a seedcore and that it is similar to a computer for storage and that you, yourself, programmed it and continue to program it.

Let us use, for example, a tree. It starts from a tiny seed, but this tiny seed has programmed into it the height the tree will grow to, what kind of foliage it will have, if it will bear fruit or not, how many incarnations it will have, and even how it will die. All this knowledge is stored in that tiny seed. Now this tree does not have any control over changing this pattern. It cannot decide, after it's about six feet high, that it doesn't like the shape of its leaves or the color of its fruit. It has absolutely no control over its destiny. It is of the botanical kingdom and is, therefore, not of the divine kingdom.

We as humans do have control. We can change with each incarnation. If we don't like certain things about the pattern stored in our seedcore, it can be erased and reprogrammed. But for heaven's sake, we need to recognize that it is possible to make changes, and then use our intelligence to implement these changes!

Precocious intent is not going to be the same as opening a letter and reading, “For you, so many credits in jealousy or two semesters on diplomacy,” or anything as cut and dried as that. It is so very complicated and so all-consuming that it must begin at birth. There is no other way. It will be a gradual unfolding, not a quick decision to change anything. The one in whom this finding of Precocious Intent has occurred is usually not even aware of it. Perhaps he notices that he has more determination to accomplish certain tasks or perhaps a very strong desire to change the whole direction of his life. He may already be on the right track. It will just be a feeling of confirmation that he has made the right choices. The gift of Free Will was bestowed to implement the gift of Precocious Intent. Once his intentions in this incarnation are known, he can make the attempt to accomplish them, but only with the use of Free Will intelligently applied.

4. Prophets (Channels)

The fourth of the seven great gifts was the Prophets (channels) or psychics, communicators, transmitters, etc. who, down through the ages, have had the ability to see through the veils of the different dimensions. This gift has been maligned, tortured, murdered, spat upon – whatever could be done to them to discredit them. It is still being done to them today.

Down through the ages there have been Prophets (channels) for interplane communication. Some choose this task before incarnating, but only after a certain stage in evolution has been reached and only those on a certain combination of rays are capable of this. The basic requirement is to be a seventh ray soul.

One thing to keep in mind is who is doing the channeling and for what purpose. Some are being used by the hierarchy to bring out the truth of man's origins. Other Prophets (channels) are being used for other purposes. The total scope of where we have been and where we are headed will help many people over some hurdles ahead of them.

Transmitting is a delicate art. The thoughts are sent out into the atmosphere on the exact wave length that a channel's vibration is on. It is like a radio wave or TV. As a matter of fact, it is just a higher level of the exact same process. The goal would be to not only send the words, but also pictures.

Although most of the transmitting is done at night, some is done at the same time. When we are actually transmitting this is when you feel us. When you do not, you are writing what you received while asleep. Radio wave transmissions that are done directly to a channel by beam are on very strong energies. The ones done at night are just as strong, but can be received more easily because normal receiving of outside stimuli is at rest. In other words, all other channels or stations are "off the air."

To be able to do communication is an achievement that is rare. It is not what level of what plane that determines if you will have this ability when you cross over. It is a combination of many, many talents and incarnations of experience using these talents. Some of the greatest intelligences in the hierarchy do not have this ability. It is a talent comparable to performance on a musical instrument on the earth plane. It is quite difficult to describe. It is that extra something that makes one performer able to communicate well with his audience, while another of equal talent cannot, even though their ability may be higher. These are ones who need to have different ways to express, perhaps by teaching or writing and not by direct communication.

As with performance on earth's plane, so it is on the other side. One may be highly intelligent and trained and have the ability to see an overall picture of humanities' problems. He may know the answer as to what will help. He may know how this help should be given – by thought impression, Divine Intervention, walk-ins or any number of other ways. But if this intelligent one does not, himself, have the ability to communicate these decisions directly to humanity he must delegate the task to one who can. This would be comparable on the earth plane to one who can compose beautiful music, but cannot sing, so must find one who can sing to perform the composition.

When doing conscious receiving, a Prophet's (channel's) mind works on a split level. Their concrete mind stays steady and focused on the subject while their higher mind is receiving information from lines running into it like a computer center. It synthesizes the information coming in from all lines and then channels it down to the concrete mind as one clear thought-form.

The lines feeding in are from three areas – the universal mind, the teacher and guides, and the Prophet's (channel's) own soul (former incarnations). They synthesize in the upper level and feed a single, steady stream into the lower level (concrete mind), but when a channel writes the material, it is not being synthesized. Each line is feeding in separately and coming out separately. That is why each paragraph is a totally different subject, and makes much editing necessary. The goal, either in writing or speaking, is the one line, not three. The editing does the synthesizing that the mind should be doing before writing. This is the biggest stumbling block and downfall of most communicators. The ones who can achieve this are rare.

The path of the communicator is never easy. Some Prophets (channels) lose track of their duties, get sidetracked after accomplishing a goal, so to speak. Also, the channel will not stay as open if one has unclear thoughts and mercenary goals. Another thing to be aware of is when a person closes the channel for a while, (stops receiving) it takes time to get the “well of living water” to pump to the surface again. It becomes rusty, so to speak, and the pump needs to be primed so it flows smoothly again. Therefore it is best for them to be cautious. Sometimes they won’t always get things exactly right the first time. That’s why, two or three days later, information will come out more accurately. One should take the second explanation as being the more accurate.

The following is an explanation from my teachers and guides:

We are former parts of your seedcore that have moved on to other planets. There are many of us at different levels of different planes, because you, Norma, have had many incarnations. You’ve always been in a hurry. It is obviously a part of your core. Once we have opened the channel to you, others may use that same channel. Now that your vibration is raised high enough, those less evolved parts of you can be controlled, because their vibration is not as high as yours. Ours is higher.

There are several of your former incarnations here with us. Every incarnation you had has returned to the inner planes and is here now on many different levels of different planes. We are your probable realities. You have the seedcore in you now in incarnation and it has the pattern of all these other lives buried deep inside it. It is hard to understand. We are real; it's like you gave birth to each of us – at different times of course – and that we lived and expressed and returned to the inner planes and stayed here, a branch off of you, so to speak. You returned to try it again as something different, a different way to explore and experience. Some of us did you well and others actually pulled you backward.

All your past incarnations and future incarnations are your probable realities, but remember, they all exist at the same time. There are others in the future which we can see but you, so far, can't and really are better off. Actually you are at the present time forming your future probabilities. You build them in your mind and when you, with the seedcore in you, come back to the inner planes, you give birth to the reality that you formed in your thoughts in the last incarnation. This is why we say thoughts are things. You are the builder of your future realities.

This fact of our being part of you there helps explain split personalities. This is when the probable realities are much stronger than the one in incarnation and are able to overpower the entity and come through. This denotes a lower level of evolution because the probable realities should realize their place in the order of life and not take over even though it's easy for them to do so. There are times when we come through you when you are in danger. This does not happen very often and we don't speak through you, but could if needed.

Entities having problems with what you call split personalities could be helped by the one in incarnation becoming stronger and having more self-confidence and determination. Also they could be helped by the study of metaphysics if they are at a high enough level of intelligence and are not steeped in old religious beliefs.

5. Divine Intervention

The fifth gift is Divine Intervention. Of this gift, humanity is not even aware or they would do what they could to destroy it also. Divine Intervention really is misunderstood by all groups – religious, metaphysical, or whatever. Divine Intervention is brought on by you. This is a startling statement, is it not? It is a shocking idea, but the true meaning of Divine Intervention is when the God Within is exercising his prerogatives in a situation, even though the entity is not aware of the God Within. You see, this God Within can be very strong and all powerful when the occasion demands it. People usually cannot explain why they perform a heroic deed after it's over. All they can say is, "I don't know why I did it," or, "I just had to," or, "It was the only thing to do." This is an action of bravery that is not pre-meditated. It is an instantaneous reaction, and the true expression of Divine Intervention.

What is truly alarming is when a group of people stand around watching an atrocious crime being committed without making a move to stop it. Those who do this have truly killed the God Within or they would react without thinking, to try to stop the crime. This is truly more frightening than the crime itself. The ones who would do this are guiltier than the one committing the crime. They will have more Karma than the attacker or criminal, because they have denied the God Within. Most people will have difficulty with this concept, but this is one of the great gifts we were given and we are not even aware of it and yet we deny its use by being apathetic

Thoughts are things. We make our own world with our thinking. We are all manifestations of the Creator God's thinking. He makes His own world with His thinking. When we want to change our world, we must first change our thinking. When the Creator God wants to change His world, He must first change His thinking. He can only do this through us, as we are His only way of expressing His thoughts. We are His actions stemming from His thoughts. Therefore, if the Creator God has all these many different ways of expressing His thoughts and we are one of those ways, then we in turn have many different ways of expressing our thoughts. If we, through our actions, are expressing His thoughts, then we, at the same time, are expressing, through our actions, our own thoughts. Thus our actions are not only His expression, but our own expression as well. Therefore our actions are the rejoining of the circle where we have found God.

If all things in nature are the physical body of the Creator God, and we know that there is more to Him than the physical form just as there is more to us than the physical form, then there is more to all things in nature than meets the eye. There is mind surrounding each plant, each tree, each flower, each rock, each blade of grass and piece of sand. Where there is mind, there can also be communication. It's as simple as that. Where there is communication, there can be love and understanding and closeness. Where there is love and understanding and closeness, there is oneness. Where there is a oneness there is a completed circle. That completed circle is God.

When one has no sense of right or wrong and no gut feeling of remorse at acts or deeds against the one overpowering universal law, “Do Unto Others As You Would Have Them Do Unto You,” then that one has no business trying any method of contact with the astral plane. He will only contact those of like mind and only nail the lid tighter on the box he has gotten himself into. What he needs to do, instead, is listen for the “voice of the master” which is the God Within him speaking. The stronger it becomes, the better the reception and the louder it is heard. It is the voice of his conscience, nothing more. Humanity must learn to listen to and use the advice that comes from this voice.

Those who are listening to and leading their life solely through “spirit” are becoming as “puppets” for those on the inner planes who are enjoying this game of being able to “almost live again,” even though experiencing second hand and not firsthand some of the incidents they set up for their “puppet” to follow through on.

There is “Spirit,” the Divine Mind, this is very true. Have no doubts on this subject, but it cares nothing for materialistic day-to-day activities and will not be available for contact for each individual action or move each one takes. “Spirit” does not work this way. These people are being led by discarnate souls who are cagey and sly and never overstep the impressions they give humans as to what their actions should be. Does it make any sense to inhabit a human form and not have your own Free Will to do what you want while in that form?

True “Spirit” would not, as said before, be interested in finding lost articles or giving directions to certain places, etc. Use your common sense, your reasoning, intelligent minds. True “Spirit” does not work on this level. True “Spirit” will enter the picture only when you are entering His realm by stretching your mind as to philosophical questioning, and by study and contemplation of the large overview problems of humanity. True “Spirit” only works in large overview situations, not day-by-day little problems. This is being done by those on the other side who are enjoying the whole game.

Now true, some are being guided by qualified teachers and guides, but there are not as many of these as there are the others. These teachers and guides do try to “police” the situation and find those “leading humans around by the nose” as their puppets and servants and demand they stop it. But there are not enough of the true teachers and guides to successfully do this. Those leading humans as though they were puppets have no right to be interfering in these lives to the point of making all decisions for people or overstepping the boundaries of the law by offering too much help with day-to-day problems. The ones incarnated in the human forms are there to learn certain lessons as the personality they incarnated as and are being robbed of the glorious opportunity.

You see, there is a fine line of too much help being given, and some brand new guides or “trainees” are overstepping their lines. There are many more waking up to trans-plane communication and the teachers and guides on the other side of the veil are certainly welcoming this, but at the same time they are not prepared with enough trained guides and teachers – qualified guides and teachers. Perhaps they have been given the training, but the wisdom has not had time to develop in most instances.

Yes, humanity needs to “awaken” but they need to use caution and discretion and discernment and let none other tell them what to do or make them do anything against their will. The rings of energy (teachers and guides) that people are contacting are progressive and humanity must keep climbing as the devious, playful rings of energy are large and at a low rung for beginning seekers to find first. This must be understood by humanity – true “Spirit” does not occupy a rung at the lower end of this pole or stream of the Divine Mind or the Holy Ghost, or whatever you wish to call it. It deserves not the name of Holy Spirit at that level regardless.

Total responsibility for one’s own course of progress through life is what is being advocated. When this course intrudes on others’ right to their own course, then it is a transgression. When those who think they are following “Spirit” become a burden on the rest of humanity, then action needs to be taken, in the form of interference, to enlightening them as to what effect their actions are causing.

When humanity learns to turn his thoughts inward and sincerely search his own inner being and wonder and contemplate and imagine and let his mind soar to higher planes, then he will have a better opportunity to contact true “Spirit,” and implement the use of Divine Intervention.

6. Karma

By now our beginning seeker has a good idea of what he must work on. The acceptance of Reincarnation lays the foundation for all concepts. So far we have talked about this gift of Reincarnation, along with Free Will, Precocious Intent, Prophets (Channels) and Divine Intervention. I would now like to discuss the judicial system, if you will, of our little world from the angle of the Creator God.

The sixth gift is Karma. The ramifications of past lives could help so many understand themselves. When there is something so painful that one does not wish to look at it, it could very well be from a former incarnation.

An example of Karma is that of a young woman, in her late twenties, divorced and raising her son alone. The son is about eight years old. The mother is a heavy equipment operator and works out at a gym every day. Her relationship with her son is not good. She became a heavy equipment operator to prove her theory of female equality with the male which is also why she is working hard at the gym. This theory is being overdone. There truly will be no need to prove physical equality with men. This can never be, because the female of the species will ever be the weaker physically.

The truth is that there is no need to prove any sort of equality in the way she wants. The soul is the only thing that matters and all souls are equal. One is the male half and the other the female half but both need to experience all types of incarnations. This woman was severely repressed as a female in one past life by the entity who is now her son; hence the disharmony now between them. She truly needs to learn this lesson that it does not matter and see to it that her son has an equal opportunity to learn the same lesson, that of the equality of the soul. This does not mean that she is to beat it into him or anything like that. It must be done on an open, honest, truthful, mental level and by living example.

As stated before, trying to prove her theory of women being equal to men is the reason she is a heavy equipment operator. Perhaps the time has come when she no longer needs to prove to her son, on a subconscious level, that she is masculine and strong. She is also doing this partly to make up for his not having his father around and this makes her feel less guilty, but she must remember that her son needs to see the beautiful feminine side of humanity in its simple, pure strength, beauty and love of art and music. This is what will help him most is to develop his artistic abilities so he may express beauty, not repress it. She must help him understand that it is not being a sissy to love a beautiful picture or show affection to an animal or shed a few tears if he feels the need. Perhaps she and her son both should take up painting or music.

Remember, the last two gifts, Karma and the Universal Laws, make up the judicial system of the universe. Perhaps the following will show humanity exactly how it works:

Karma Compared to Cause and Effect

As far as the “effect behind your unhappiness” goes, ask yourself what caused it. If you say it the other way, “What is the cause of your unhappiness,” your unhappiness is the effect of your past behavior, but the unhappiness was also the cause of your behavior which had a bad effect on you and others. This is the concept that needs to be understood. A certain thing can be both cause and effect. Let’s take an example:

Bed wetting is the cause of fear and uncertainty and fear and uncertainty causes bed wetting. It’s always like a boomerang. X is cause and Y is effect, but Y caused X to be the effect. Here are some more examples:

Windows on the Past

- Underground turmoil (cause) - Mt. St. Helen's eruption (effect)
- Mt. St. Helen's eruption (cause) - Ash fallout (effect)
- Ash fallout (cause) - Damage to gardens (effect)
- Damage to gardens (cause) - Food shortages (effect)
- Food shortages (cause) - High prices (effect)
- High prices (cause) - Poverty (effect)
- Poverty (cause) - Emotional upheaval (effect)
- Emotional upheaval (cause) - Crime (effect)
- Crime (cause) - Fear (effect)

The best way to do this is for you to consider one troubled relationship you have, one that always leaves an odd feeling of unfinished business when you think of it. This does not have to be someone that you fight with, necessarily, but more that of a relationship that puzzles you. Surely you can think of one, even if from your past. When you have decided which relationship you want to concentrate on, write down all the thoughts you have about this person, whether they be good or bad, and then list the reactions these traits trigger in you. You are almost sure to narrow it down this way to one overriding area of concern that causes the puzzlement that this relationship brings about in you.

Take it even further and meditate for awhile on what could have caused this in a previous life. Write all this down, the good and bad traits and their effect on you. The result could well be a far better relationship. Don't stop there, do this with all relationships, good and bad, and you will begin to understand the judicial system and how it works.

7. Universal Laws

The seventh gift is the Universal Laws. Once more I would like for you to climb back up into our make-believe world, again playing the role of the Creator God, and look down there. Look at them arguing, fighting, hitting, and even killing each other. They are still very barbaric, aren't they? You could separate them. Maybe it would work better to take the ones who have grown past that stage and put them in a separate little world. "No, I'd like to try keeping them all together, because it really is all the scattered parts of me, you know. If I separate some off, it will be like cutting off one of my arms or legs."

They are all part of one body and they must learn to get along and cooperate with each other. As long as one leg wants to go one way and one the other, and one arm reach up and the other down, and the head turn opposite of the body, you're not going to make any progress are you? Picture a doll, if you can, twisted in this shape and you'll have a better idea of what this would look like. Well, there just has to be some way to get them all headed in one direction. You'll have to have a set of immutable laws and then a system of reinforcement to make them work.

"The laws will be the same for all, not only for my little world, but for all my brothers' worlds. Of course, they are more advanced than my world and the set of laws governing those worlds worked quite well. I will use them also in my little world, but I may have to add a few extra. Just look at them down there!"

The one law that heads the top of the list for all worlds is: "Do Unto Others As You Would Have Them Do Unto You." This one law really does say it all, and that is the basic building block for all worlds. This brings the responsibility home to the individual, where it belongs. The other laws are breakdowns and definitions of all stages of this one law. The individual is not only the victim; he is also the perpetrator, the judge, and the jury. This is the way it must be, and if it could but be enforced on that little world, there would be no problems, because all problems would be self-administered and self-resolved. As it is, it will have to be taught and shown to them by example. This can be done because you did decide to recycle them, remember, instead of making new ones. You can take advantage of this recycling to teach them this law – that what they sow, they will reap.

Basically, the Universal Laws are one's conscience and one must at all times abide by them. They are unwritten laws. They are the right and wrong feelings one gets through his conscience. As given, the one overall universal law is DO UNTO OTHERS AS YOU WOULD HAVE THEM DO UNTO YOU. If you are doing something to another that you would not want done to you, then it is against Universal Law. Let each one draw up his own set of laws. They would all pretty much have the same list. If you feel something is wrong, then it is against the law. Treat others as you want to be treated.

Most of humanity is self-centered, not selfish. There is a distinct difference between the two, and self-centeredness is the problem. Take, as an example, a man who gives his family everything they could possibly want and would give "the shirt off his back" to an unfortunate friend. This is true unselfishness, but unless he gives more than material things he is self-centered, because to be self-centered is to not want to share the total person with others. It is to not be open and receptive. It is thinking that one's ideas are the only right ones and truly not being interested in any other viewpoint.

For one in whom self-centeredness is not so deeply ingrained and whose mind is more receptive, there are many ways to help the sincere seeker overcome this stumbling block. One would be to have them write a story about the deepest fear they have. This is a good one to start with because it usually does not embarrass people, for some reason, to discuss this. They seem to accept this part of them as something for which they are not responsible, and usually they are not, at least in a direct way. A deep fear comes from something done to them. They may be responsible only because of an action they did to another in some previous lifetime, because there are no innocent victims; nevertheless, they accept their fears and even laugh about them.

Writing about your fears will quite often cause them to dissipate, but that is not the real goal for writing about them. The real goal is to get people to open up their central core and look at their fears. Once a small crack is made, then the areas that are causing the self-centeredness can be gradually opened; writing about fear can be used as a wedge to open them. Once this is done and the person starts closing up again, mention the fear to them and that will cause the tiny door to open again; then immediately hit them with a fact of self-centeredness that they need to look at, such as why do they think they are one hundred percent correct about some attitudes they have. This will make a good start. For some, the only way to change them from this attitude of self-centeredness will be to shock them so badly that it could destroy them. One must have compassion and keep trying, but it may very well be that this is an attitude that will have to wait for the next incarnation to be worked on very diligently.

The following is from the teachers and guides:

It must be stressed that the more water used out of a well, the more clean, sweet, water can flow into it. In other words, the more one helps others to the full extent of which he is capable, the more help he himself will receive. This is not meant to be a sweet, sticky, sentimental type of thing, such as taking the clothes off your back and giving them to someone less fortunate. It must be done by using the intelligent mind, and believe me, it is very obvious to us as to whether or not this intelligence is being used. Those who do not use it will have this in their lesson plans for their next lifetime. It doesn't make sense to give away your last bit of food and then starve to death yourself, does it?

As far as using your intelligent mind, you're no different than us and really, you probably would have better ideas than us as far as helping humanity with this problem of self-centeredness. You are there experiencing all that is going on while we are merely watching. Why not send some ideas back up to us once in a while? Does this thought strike you as odd? It is not, or should not be, a one way street. Perhaps we are more qualified or suited to implement your ideas, but you are more qualified and suited to help us with ideas for guiding those not on the path.

Take, for instance, a member of a street gang and by using wishful thinking, try to come up with some set of circumstances that could, by "living example," help this one straighten up his act. Come on, use your head. You must have some ideas. No matter how "far out" it seems, let's hear it. We, the teachers and guides are open to anything, and sometimes the wildest-sounding idea has a germ or seed of thought in it that triggers a response in someone else. This is called brainstorming. Let's hear your wild ideas. They may not be so wild after all. What has been tried so far hasn't worked. We will reach these misguided ones after they leave the earth plane, so they will get the teachings then, but what can we do while they're still on the earth plane? Help us, please.

Ten Points to Ponder

Time is the essence of the soul. It will play its part in each lifetime as planned prior to each person entering. It will seem to stand still for some and to fly by for others. It is all carefully laid out. There is a time, therefore, for each stage of each life. It is like a time clock linked to each division or cycle in a life. When the time has run out in a cycle it will end, no matter how one tries to stop it, if it is a scheduled lesson that you agreed to take on before entrance. The time cycle cannot be thrown too far off track, because each life is mathematically programmed, as is the universe. If one cycle is thrown off, it throws off the next cycle coming in. If the universe acted this way, it would buckle. Therefore, when it's time, it's time:

1. No one else knows what your mission is.
2. No one can do it for you or advise you.
3. You chose this task before entering.
4. The completion of this task erases karma.
5. This is a step towards higher initiation.
6. All must pass this test sometime or other.
7. If you fail, it will be twice as hard next time.
8. No others have the right to hold you back.

Windows on the Past

9. Be strong in your beliefs at all times
10. Be courageous in forging new paths; be a leader.

This is a litany for all to think about. The circumstances one finds oneself in are those of his own choosing for reasons that will be revealed some day. Believe in this and make the most of each day.

The New Creation is the shedding of out-dated concepts and teachings that we inherited through the ages from those who came before us who, because of reincarnation, were really us after all. We were not as enlightened then and most true teachings - reincarnation, God Within and our double evolution - were misinterpreted. The New Creation is the understanding of these teachings. We learn of Seven Great Gifts, Seven Daily Virtues and Seven New Concepts.
