Introduction & Acknowledgements

Of my four major books that are now published eBooks and audiobooks, this book is the only one that had not yet been published as a paperback. Also, if you noticed, I modified the title a bit. When I originally published this as an eBook in 2012, and later as an audiobook in 2014, the title was The Possibility of Sex: How Naïve and Lustful Men are Manipulated by Women Regularly.

If you currently own either my 2012 eBook and/or my 2014 audiobook, you already know that arguably the most popular concept that was espoused in each of those two versions was my personal philosophy of "No Free Attention," which represented my belief that no single heterosexual man should ever give a woman full and indefinite access to his non-sexual time, attention, and companionship unless . . .

- A) He and his designated woman of interest are currently engaging in sexual relations;
- B) He is not yet engaging in sexual relations with his designated woman of interest, but she has made it crystal clear that she is very much interested in engaging in sexual relations with him in the very near future;

- C) The woman has made it clear that she is not at all interested in engaging in sexual relations with the man, but the man is more so genuinely interested in socially interacting with the woman in a purely platonic manner and/or he is interacting with her in a manner that will prove to be beneficial to him career-wise, financially, or socially.

Beginning with no later than 2015, I began to observe a lot of other professional dating coaches, pickup artists (PUAs), and other assorted "self-improvement gurus" adopting my concept of "No Free Attention" without giving me my proper credit attribution for popularizing the concept.

I have been operating with the No Free Attention philosophy since March 1988, which is before many of the men who are currently active in what is known as "The Manosphere" were even born.

For example, just earlier this year, I had a young PUA type who is based in Miami upload a video on YouTube titled "No Free Attention for Women!" I wrote him and said, "FYI: You know I popularized the phrase 'No Free Attention' don't you?? You did not give me any credit for it in your video." He initially replied, "Well, with all due respect to you Alan, I have been using the phrase 'no free attention' since like 2017. Maybe even 2016."

No FREE Attention:

How Women use The Possibility of Sex to Manipulate Naïve and Lustful Men

I quickly let him know that I had been using that phrase and philosophy since 1988, and then he was like, "Holy shit! Wow! 1988?!?!? Wow! Sorry Alan. I had no idea that you had been using that phrase and philosophy for that long. If that is the case, then you are pretty much the originator of that concept then. You are indeed The Godfather!"

Actually, one of my top two nicknames among men in what is known as The Manosphere is "The Godfather of Direct (Verbal) Game Advice & Wisdom." I have literally lost count of the number of other dating coaches, PUAs, and self-proclaimed "self-improvement gurus" or "seduction gurus" who have borrowed talking points from one or more of my books without giving me what is known as "Proper Credit Attribution."

For those who may not be aware of this long-standing tradition, anytime you repeat and regurgitate other published authors' unique terms, signature phrases, original concepts, and direct quotes and personal philosophies, you are always supposed to give proper credit attribution to the author(s) whose material and intellectual property you are borrowing talking points and material from. If you fail to do this, then technically you are guilty of plagiarism and/or copyright infringement.

All that to say, the main reason why I modified the title of this book from The Possibility of Sex to No Free Attention is because I want all the men (and women) who read this book to know that I am the dating coach and author who first popularized this concept, signature phrase, and personal philosophy. Anytime you hear another dating coach, PUA, or self-improvement guru use the phrase "No Free Attention," trust me ... they borrowed it (or flat-out STOLE IT) from ME.

Secondly, in full disclosure, this is not really a 'stand-alone' book. This book is actually part of what I would loosely refer to as a "trilogy" of books. If I had to use the Star Wars® movies as a lighthearted analogy, the first book in the trilogy, Mode One, is like Star Wars, Episode IV; the second book in the trilogy, Ooooooh ... Say it Again, is like Star Wars, Episode V; and this book, No Free Attention / The Possibility of Sex, is like Star Wars, Episode VI. Then, I would refer to my book titled The Beta Male Revolution as "The Prequel" to my designated 'trilogy' (similar to Star Wars, Episodes I, II, and III).

I do not really view Mode One, Ooooooh ... Say it Again, and No Free Attention / The Possibility of Sex as three (3) separate books. I more so view all three as ONE LONG BOOK divided into three (3) separate parts.

Finally, I would like to offer an enthusiastic shout-out to my brother, Stephen Clarence Currie; my wife, Jameelah Currie; Alix Edouard Grand-Pierre and Alvin Hollinger III, who both first encouraged me to write and publish my 2012 eBook version of this book; Esther Vilar, whose popular best-selling book, The Manipulated Man was a partial inspiration and influence for my own book; and the late, great adult film actor John Leslie, whose fictional character of the prolific womanizer "Jack" in the 1980 adult film, Talk Dirty to Me, was my first major inspiration for my entire Mode One philosophy.

The Primary Basis for My MODE ONE Philosophy

When it comes to single heterosexual men attempting to connect with women either for a) long-term, strictly monogamous sex, b) long-term, non-monogamous (i.e., polygamy or polyamory) sex, c) short-term, strictly monogamous sex (i.e., "serial monogamy"), or d) short-term, non-monogamous sex (i.e., promiscuous casual sex), I tend to place all women in five different 'archetypes' as far as their verbal communication style:

Reciprocators – These are women that once a man verbally communicates his romantic or strictly sexual desires, interests, and intentions to a woman, this woman will quickly, straightforwardly, and enthusiastically reciprocate his desires & interests;

Rejecters – These are women that once a man verbally communicates his romantic or strictly sexual desires, interests, and intentions to a woman, this woman will quickly and straightforwardly convey to the man that she has absolutely no interest in sharing his company in any sort of physically intimate manner;

Wholesome Pretenders – These are women that once a man verbally communicates his desire to engage in one or more episodes of short-term non-monogamous 'casual' sex, this woman will INITIALLY behave as though she is 'turned off' or simply 'not interested,' but in reality, this woman is open to being persuaded and seduced into engaging in one or more episodes of casual sex with a man;

Erotic Hypocrites – These are women that are a more pretentious, materialistic, and antagonistic & argumentative variation of a Wholesome Pretender type. These are women who more or less operate as "covert Call Girls" who seek to receive monetary favors and materialistic gifts from men in direct exchange for their (short-term, non-monogamous) sexual companionship;

Manipulative Timewasters – These are women that once a man verbally communicates his romantic or strictly sexual desires, interests, and intentions to a woman, this woman will TEMPORARILY or INDEFINITELY seek to give a man the very misleading impression that she is genuinely interested in sharing his company in some sort of physically intimate manner, but in reality, this woman is just seeking to maintain a purely platonic friendship with a man and/or exploit a man for his financial resources and material possessions.

My book, Mode One, offers the basic framework for explaining to men why direct verbal communication is much more effective toward the objective of quickly identifying Wholesome Pretender types, Erotic Hypocrite types, and Manipulative Timewaster types compared to using some variation of indirect verbal communication (i.e., Mode Two and/or Mode Three verbal communication styles).

No FREE Attention:

How Women use The Possibility of Sex to Manipulate Naïve and Lustful Men

My book, Ooooooh ... Say it Again, is the book that exclusively focuses on the two sexually duplicitous archetypes of women, which would be the Wholesome Pretender types and the Erotic Hypocrite types, and it explains how a man can use his verbal seduction skills and his erotic dirty talk talents to charm and persuade these two types of women into engaging in one or more episodes of short-term, non-monogamous 'casual' sex with him.

Finally, this book ... No FREE Attention / The Possibility of Sex ... centers on helping men quickly and effectively identify women who are a combination of dishonest, disingenuous, misleading & manipulative, and generally materialistic. In other words, what I refer to as the Manipulative Timewaster types of the world.

Just months ago, I had a follower and supporter of mine express to me that he viewed me as a one of the premiere thought leaders and pioneers of The Manosphere, and that my knowledge, wisdom, insight, and overall advice contributed to him experiencing a high number of personal epiphanies and modifying a good number of his long-standing paradigms and beliefs regarding the general nature of socially interacting with women, and pursuing them for romantic and/or strictly sexual companionship.

I will refer to this follower and supporter as "Frank" (not his real first name), and Frank highlighted at least three major areas where I helped him view interactions with women very differently:

- 1) Frank said that before becoming familiar with my books, he used to believe that bringing up the subject of sex in your very first conversation with a woman of interest was a huge "No No." Frank had been taught by his mother, his older brother, and various friends and social acquaintances that discussing anything related to his sexual desires, interests, and intentions with women in his very first conversation with them would cause a woman to feel disrespected, insulted, offended, and generally 'turned off.' Frank said that my books, Mode One and Ooooooh ... Say it Again totally changed his mind regarding his original belief and attitude about this;

- 2) Frank said that before he became familiar with my books, he used to believe that the most effective way to motivate a woman to engage in one or more episodes of short-term and/or non-monogamous sex was to exhibit behavior that is dishonest, disingenuous and misleading, and generally manipulative (*i.e., this is what I refer to as Mode Three Behavior), or at bare minimum, engage in a conversation style with women that was very pleasant, polite, cautious, flattering, entertaining, and vague & ambiguous (*i.e., this is what I refer to as Mode Two Behavior). Frank said it was not until he read both Mode One and Ooooooh ... Say it Again that he realized all of the major detriments, flaws, weaknesses, and general drawbacks to employing either Mode Two and/or Mode Three Behavior with women, and that exhibiting a Mode One direct verbal communication style with women was much more conducive to his needs and objectives in the long-run;
- 3) Finally, Frank expressed to me that because of many years of following the advice of multiple conventional PUAs and other dating coaches, Frank had always believed that if a woman smiled at him, engaged in friendly and flirtatious conversations with him, and she agreed to join him on a number of lunch dates, dinner dates, movie dates, and other types of 'dates,' that this meant that 90 - 99% chance, the woman was genuinely interested in sharing his company at some point in the future in a romantic or strictly sexual manner. It was not until Frank a) found himself wasting a lot of time and money on a high number of women without any of his investments of both ever leading to sexual intimacy with these women and b) read my book, The Possibility of Sex that he fully realized that not every woman who appears to give a man "indicators of interests" (IOIs) and/or "choosing signals" (both of these are conventional PUA terms) is genuinely interested in engaging in sexual relations with that man. In a nutshell, Frank said that before coming across my material, he had NO IDEA that women who operate as Manipulative Timewasters even existed.

Frank said that none of the conventional PUAs that he followed ever even remotely mentioned an archetype of women similar to Manipulative Timewasters. This does not surprise me even one bit.

No FREE Attention:

How Women use The Possibility of Sex to Manipulate Naïve and Lustful Men

From a strictly business standpoint, I totally understand why the vast majority of conventional PUAs do not want men to know about the archetype of women who I refer to as Manipulative Timewasters.

You see, conventional PUAs earn money from clients by giving (naïve and impressionable) men the misleading impression that their advice will lead to their clients a) becoming some sort of 'overnight ladies' man' and 'overnight womanizer,' and secondly, b) that their advice will directly lead to men being able to significantly diminish their instances of quick, abrupt, straightforward, and harsh rejection from women.

One of ways that conventional PUAs accomplish the "b" objective is by giving men the very invalid and misleading impression that if the man is able to 1) prevent and avoid any and all negative reactions and responses from women and 2) provoke a woman to interact with him in a very enthusiastic, friendly, and more so flirtatious manner, that nine times out of ten, he will eventually get that woman to agree to engage in sexual relations with him.

In reality, nothing could be further from the truth.

Think about it. If all a man had to do in order to get a woman to agree to have sex with him is to maintain a conversation style that was "pleasant," "polite," "friendly," flattering & entertaining, and generally representative of a well-mannered 'innocent flirt,' then every man who fancies himself a "classy gentleman" and the proverbial "nice guy" would never, ever experience any challenges or problems getting women in bed.

Here is the hardcore truth about women:

- 1) Not all women who are interested in engaging in sexual relations with a man (and particularly, some form of short-term and/or non-monogamous sex) are going to verbally communicate those desires to men in an upfront, genuine, and straightforwardly honest manner. Among other reasons, the vast majority of women are too paranoid about anything that is going to negatively affect their public image and social reputation (in blunt terms, no woman wants to develop a reputation for being a 'whore' and/or a 'slut'). This is why you have the two archetypes of women that I refer to as Wholesome Pretenders and Erotic Hypocrites (I discuss these archetypes in more specific detail in my book titled Ooooooh ... Say it Again)

- 2) Similar to #1, not all women who are NOT INTERESTED in either dating a man long-term or engaging in 'casual' sexual relations with a man short-term are going to verbally communicate their lack of interest to men in an upfront, unapologetic, and straightforwardly honest manner. Why not? For starters, many women are afraid of being physically assaulted by men as a direct result of abruptly or harshly rejecting a man. I have had literally hundreds of women convey this sentiment to me over the last thirty-five years. Just last year, there was a college student in Chicago who was murdered because a man became angry when she rebuffed his sexual advances. Secondly, many women want to exploit men who they know have a strong desire to engage in sexual relations with them so that they can a) gain full and indefinite access to that man's non-sexual time, attention, and companionship and/or b) take advantage of that man's financial resources and overall sense of financial & materialistic generosity.

The latter part of #2, in simple terms, is why you have women who operate as Manipulative Timewasters. These women have absolutely no interest in your sexual attention and companionship, but they are extremely interested in some specific aspect of your non-sexual time, attention, and companionship.

You see, most of these women are very savvy. Manipulative Timewasters know that if they let you know too quickly and/or too straightforwardly that they have zero interest in engaging in sexual relations with you, that you are never going to invest any significant amount of time and/or money pursuing their romantic or strictly sexual companionship.

This is why a man's verbal communication style is so important. When a man verbally communicates his romantic or strictly sexual desires, interests, and intentions to a woman in a highly self-assured, upfront, very specific, and straightforwardly honest manner (i.e., he exhibits what I refer to as Mode One Behavior with women), then he places a woman in a position where she only has one of two options: either a) fully reciprocate the man's desires & interests, or b) straightforwardly reject the man's desires & interests.

The problem with the vast majority of men is that they LOVE reaction "a," but they HATE receiving a "b" response.

How Women use The Possibility of Sex to Manipulate Naïve and Lustful Men

The vast majority of men cannot handle being abruptly and straightforwardly rejected by a woman who they find very physically attractive and sexually appealing. Most men will attempt to do damn near anything to prevent themselves from being rejected by a woman of interest.

Many men will excessively flatter women in an attempt to avoid being rejected.

Many men will go out of their way to entertain women and make them smile, giggle, and/or laugh in an attempt to avoid being rejected.

Many men will offer women free meals, monetary favors, and materialistic gifts in an attempt to avoid being rejected.

Many men will temporarily or indefinitely pretend as though they are content with being a woman's purely platonic friend in an attempt to avoid being rejected.

And in a worst-case scenario, some men will resort to raping or date-raping a woman to avoid being denied the opportunity to engage in sexual relations with a woman.

In the next five chapters, I going to cover each of those five attempts to prevent and avoid rejection one by one in more specific detail.

Here is the bottom line, that most men do not realize: When you resort to the first four of those five attempts to prevent and avoid rejection (i.e., flattering women regularly and excessively, providing women with humorous and highly entertaining conversation, offering women free meals, monetary favors, and materialistic gifts, and pretending to be content with being a woman's purely platonic male friend), you very much open yourself up to being easily and frequently manipulated by women who are Manipulative Timewaster types.

Even worse, if you resort to some form of sexual assault (e.g., groping women, forcing yourself on women, date-raping or raping women, et al), you will soon be looking to enter into prison at some point in the very near future, and gain the opportunity to share a cell with "Big Bubba" who loves man butt.

Men Who Seek to Excessively Flatter Women in order to Win Favor with Them

The first of the 5 types of men who I am going to discuss who go out of their way to prevent and avoid being rejected by women and hopefully prevent and avoid any and all forms of 'negative' reactions and responses from women are men who resort to regularly and/or excessively flattering women. I generally refer to these types of men as Ego Boosters & Self-Esteem Boosters for women.

I have never met a woman in my life who does not enjoy being complimented. Women love receiving flattering comments from men that validate their sense of beauty and physical sex appeal as well as a number of their non-physical and non-sexual attributes and qualities.

There are some women who literally become 'addicted' to flattering attention from men. I am talking, they cannot live without it. Flattering attention becomes as desirable to them as oxygen, food and water, and/or money.

Put bluntly, many women place the same value on flattering attention and entertaining conversation (which I will cover in the very next chapter) that many men place on sexual enjoyment and satisfaction.

For example, many women who post photos of themselves on social media (such as Instagram) of them adorned in swimwear or lingerie. These women just want a heavy dose of flattering attention from (horny) men.

I remember back in the 1980s, I used to ride a commuter train from the Miller Beach neighborhood of Gary, Indiana to Chicago in the morning and then back from Chicago to Miller Beach in late afternoon or early evening.

During one stretch of a few months, there was this one particular African American woman who would always choose to sit next to me. One time she came and took a seat next to me while I was reading a newspaper. Within minutes, she became highly agitated. I asked, "What is wrong with you? Is everything okay?" Initially she responded, "Oh, nothing. I am fine." Then she kept behaving more and more as if she was really irritated about something. She kept fidgeting in her seat in a very blatant manner. So again, I asked her, "Is everything alright?" For the second time, she said that she was fine.

Finally, after approximately ten minutes had passed, she said, "Okay Alan, I am going to be very, very honest with you." I replied, "Okay ... what is on your mind? Be real. Be one-hundred percent honest with me."

She said, "Alan, I don't like it when you sit next to me and you don't say anything to me. I hate it when you are consumed with reading newspapers and magazines while I am seated next to you." Half of me was somewhat surprised to hear her say that, but knowing female nature the way I do, I was not totally surprised.

She continued with, "Being blunt, I hate to be ignored by men. I hate it when men are silent for too long when they are in my presence. I want a man to talk to me, flatter me, and entertain me. I want him to share with me how attractive he thinks I am and how sexy he feels I am. If a man goes too long without doing those things, I become irritated. Is that honest enough for you?"

Not only do many women who are single and unattached frequently fall into this category, but many women who are married, engaged to be married, or otherwise romantically involved with a man seek to be flattered and entertained by men who they have no interest in dating or engaging in casual sex with.

As you continue with your life as a man, the one thing you need to always keep in mind about women is that women live to be flattered and entertained, and made to feel as though they are physically attractive, sexually desirable, and generally enjoyable to be around.

You see, men - generally speaking - are different. Men are wired differently than women are. Men do not get off on receiving compliments about their physical appearance or live to receive egotistical flattery and engage in entertaining conversations with women.

The main thing most men want from women (assuming they are heterosexual, or at least bisexual) is the opportunity to be physically intimate with them. Kiss them, make out with them, and eventually engage in oral sex and/or vaginal intercourse with them.

I want to make something very clear: All women who are Manipulative Timewaster types love and seek out flattering attention, but not all women who love and seek out flattering attention from men are Manipulative Timewasters.

In other words, if a woman makes it known to you from the beginning of your social interactions with her that she has absolutely no interest in becoming your future wife, your next long-term girlfriend, or your next brand new casual sex lover, then that woman cannot be branded as or validly categorized as a Manipulative Timewaster.

To reiterate, a Manipulative Timewaster is a woman that will mislead a man into believing that if he continues to behave in a manner that is pleasing to her, and he continues to perform financial and non-financial favors for her, that she will ultimately 'reward' him with one or more opportunities to engage in sexual relations with her ... even though she knows deep down that she will NEVER, EVER allow that man to engage in sexual relations with her.

A man who is not afraid of being rejected by a woman will have no problem verbally communicating his romantic or strictly sexual desires, interests, and intentions to a woman in a Mode One manner. This type of man will usually be able to quickly identify and effectively weed out women who are Manipulative Timewaster types within the first ten-to-fifteen minutes of their very first conversation with a woman.

On the other hand, if you are a man who hates the idea of being abruptly and straightforwardly rejected by a woman, or similarly, you hate being harshly criticized and insulted by women in response to the things you say and do, then you will always be ideal prey for a woman who is a Manipulative Timewaster. Always.

Many men foolishly believe that if they regularly or semi-regularly flatter women to the highest degree, and generally operate as a woman's personal Ego Booster & Self-Esteem Booster, they are going to earn some sort of valuable "Brownie Points" that they will be able to cash in at a later date for an opportunity to engage in sexual relations with a woman.

Any woman who is a Manipulative Timewaster type that specifically seeks out men to become her personal Ego Booster & Self-Esteem Booster for a period of days, weeks, months, or even years is generally known in society as a "Whore for Flattering Attention," or for short, simply an Attention Whore.

As I alluded to already, various social media platforms (e.g., Instagram, Facebook, etc.) are full of women who are Attention Whore types. Many women know that if they upload a photo and/or video of themselves wearing something short, tight, revealing, and/or sexually provocative in general, that they will have dozens, hundreds, or even possibly thousands of (horny) men enthusiastically ready to shower them with flattering compliments on a daily, weekly, or monthly basis.

No FREE Attention:

How Women use The Possibility of Sex to Manipulate Naïve and Lustful Men

Rarely if ever do I offer women an "empty compliment." What exactly is an empty compliment?

If you were to approach a woman, initiate a conversation with her, and immediately say something such as, "You are SO beautiful!!" or "You are SO sexy!!" ... but then, after expressing such a compliment, you said NOTHING ELSE to follow up that compliment ... and the woman simply says, "Why, THANK YOU!! You are so kind!" and then quietly walks away ... that would be representative of an empty compliment.

Beginning with no later than the age of 21 or 22, 99% of my compliments to women have been action-oriented compliments.

An action-oriented compliment is when you follow-up a compliment by expressing to a woman that you desire to share her company at some point in the near future, and even more so, you let the woman know specifically WHY you desire to share her company.

All men who exhibit Mode One Behavior with women utilize action-oriented compliments. On the other hand, men who frequently exhibit some variation of Mode Two and/or Mode Three Behavior with women generally tend to express a lot of empty compliments.

Empty compliment: "I have to tell you ... you have some very beautiful eyes and some very nice lips!"

Action-oriented compliment: "Your eyes are beautiful, and your lips are very sexy ... and I look forward to looking directly into your eyes right before I tongue-kiss you at some point in the near future. When would you like to share my company one-on-one ... next Friday, or next Saturday? "

See the difference?

If you offer an empty compliment to a Manipulative Timewaster type, you are playing right into her hands. Women who are Manipulative Timewaster types live to receive a wide assortment of empty compliments from a multiplicity of (horny) heterosexual (and even bisexual) men.

I have known women in my life that regularly maintained at least a dozen or more men in their social circle just to operate as Ego Boosters and Self-Esteem Boosters for them.

Once a woman has you tabbed as an Ego Booster & Self-Esteem Booster, there is a 99.999% chance that you are never, ever going to end up engaging in sexual relations with that woman. Why would any woman feel motivated to allow you to have sex with her, when she can receive flattery and egotistical validation from you FOR FREE.

No FREE Attention:

How Women use The Possibility of Sex to Manipulate Naïve and Lustful Men

If you are a man who falls into this category in your social interactions with women, I know for a fact that you have wasted many hours, days, weeks, months, and even years excessively flattering women's egos only to remain in their dreaded "we're just friends only" category. Be honest.

Quit offering women empty compliments. From this day forward, concentrate on only offering women action-oriented compliments. Soon, you will see your love life, sex life, and overall social life improve. At bare minimum, you will be able to quickly identify and effectively weed out all the women in your life that are nothing more than a Manipulative Timewaster.

If there is one habit that is just as bad as offering women too many flattering empty compliments, it is engaging in way too much trivial, but highly entertaining conversations with women.

This is what I am going to discuss in the very next chapter.
