About the Author

Like Jesus' followers during his days on earth, Charles has been drawn into his ministry from another profession; Aerospace. Charles has a talent for understanding the "Big Picture". He has had the opportunity to use that talent in his professional career and his theological studies.

Mr. Huettner is the President of Charles Huettner Associates a consulting firm specializing in cross-government/industry aviation and space strategies, problem solving, and coalition building. Mr. Huettner retired as the Executive Director of the Aerospace States Association (ASA) in 2018. ASA is comprised of Lt. Governors and delegates from the nation's 50 states.

Mr. Huettner retired from government service as the Executive Director of the Presidential "Commission on the Future of the US Aerospace Industry". Prior to this, he was the Policy Advisor for Aviation for the National Science and Technology Council (NSTC), in the Executive Office of the President (SES-4). During this period, he initiated the development of a national aviation policy and led the effort to remove GPS Selective Availability that was signed by the President.

He was the White House Aviation Advisor during the 9/11 terrorist attack.

Mr. Huettner was the Director for Aviation Safety Research at NASA where he initiated the development of NASA's half billion-dollar aviation safety research initiative. At FAA, he rose through the ranks from Air Carrier Operations Inspector to serve as the Deputy and Acting Associate Administrator for Aviation Safety.

Mr. Huettner is an Airline Transport Pilot rated in the B-747, B-727 and the Air Force C-141 Starlifter. He has nearly 4,000 hours of flight time including jet transports and business jet aircraft. Mr. Huettner has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Industrial Management from the University of Akron and a Master's Degree in Public Administration from Harvard's John F. Kennedy School of Government. He has a Diploma in Theological Studies from the Virginia Theological Seminary and has written three books: Jesus Reveals Revelation, The Word & The Spirit: How God Speaks to YOU, and Autobiography and Other Funny Stories.

Mr. Huettner retired as a Colonel in the USAF Reserves. His decorations include the Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal, the Air Medal, the Air Force Commendation Medal, the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal, the Combat Readiness Medal, and the Vietnam Service Medal.

Introduction

God first touched me when I was 15 years old. I was walking home from a high school wrestling practice in the dead of a Pittsburgh winter when I uttered a simple prayer under my breath. “Dear God, it sure is cold.” At that moment I felt a wave of heat come over me starting from my toes traveling to the tip of my head. I was invigorated. I knew that God had answered my prayer. I ran home, burst into the kitchen where my mother was cooking dinner and announced “I am going to be a minister”. It has been quite an adventure from that night to today.

The Holy Spirit has been very active in my life and opened my mind to numerous revelations since that cold day; revelations that are not part of any church doctrine. He has given me insight into the Book of Revelation, into how God speaks to us, and how He forms a personal relationship with each of us. Now God has given me the understanding of who we really are and His purpose for creating us and His Universe.

This book lays out a new paradigm for a belief in God and provides answers to the questions that have puzzled people for thousands of years including; who are we, and what is our purpose? This book also connects God and science to propose an answer to “The Theory of Everything” that scientists have been searching for since Einstein’s discoveries.

Open your mind as you open this book and listen to what the Holy Spirit has to tell you.

A New Paradigm for Belief in God

I propose a new paradigm of belief in God based on His reason for creating us. I have developed this new paradigm from the integration of the written word in the Bible, insights from the Holy Spirit that come from a personal relationship with God, and what we have learned from science.

I begin by making the point that there are distinctions between God, religion, and the Church. God is the almighty creator of the universe. Religion is the belief in and worship of a superhuman power within a particular doctrine and culture of belief. The Church is a religious institution whose leaders interpret God's will and instruct people how to follow that Church's teachings. Different religious denominations arise because of differences in interpretation and ritual. Whoever interprets God's will on earth is given some of God's authority by those who believe that interpretation.

In this book I am discussing God, not religion or the Church. I am addressing issues that transcend religions and religious communities.

While God is all powerful, I propose that God has created the universe based on laws that He has established and that He chooses to follow. There are two kinds of laws. Natural laws that can be discovered through mathematics and science, and spiritual laws that can be discovered through reading the Bible and day-to-day experience with the Holy Spirit. We begin by describing these two kinds of laws.

Natural Laws: Science is excellent at creating a hypothesis and using observation, measurement, and analysis (the “scientific method”) prove or disprove the hypothesis. The most fundamental tool of science is mathematics. From the cosmos to subatomic particles mathematics can describe anything that physically exists in the universe. The ability of scientists to test mathematical hypotheses through simulation and observation has advanced science and human knowledge leading to some amazing conclusions since Isaac Newton’s day.

There is no way that I can fully describe in this book what physicists have discovered since Newton. I will mention some ground-breaking scientific achievements and put additional information in the endnotes. I include this section of natural law to present the big picture of God’s creation and our place within it.

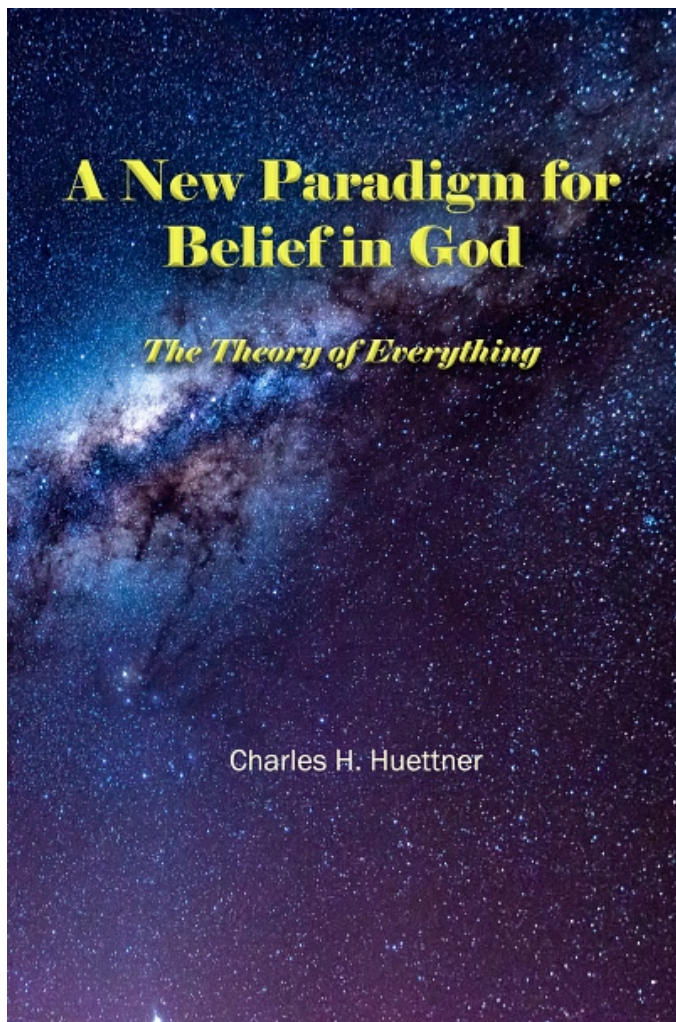

In 1687 Isaac Newton discovered the basic mathematical formulas that describe what we see around us. He laid the foundation for classical physics by describing universal gravitation and the three laws of motion. By 1901 scientists and mathematicians began to unlock an even deeper reality of the universe.

It was in 1901 that German physicist, Max Planck, published the quantum hypothesis showing that energy is divided into discrete energy elements.ⁱ He became the founder of Quantum Theory that underlies Newtonian theories. About the same time, Albert Einstein developed his theory of Relativity. He later published papers on the General Theory of Relativity, Quantum Mechanics theory, and the thermal properties of light that laid the foundation of the photon theory of light.ⁱⁱ From this beginning, scientists and mathematicians have made immense strides in mathematically defining the basic nature of our universe. They call the combination of these mathematical insights “The Standard Model”ⁱⁱⁱ.

Discoveries resulting from Quantum and Relativity theory make mathematical sense, not intuitive sense, yet the discoveries have been proven through millions of actual measurements. Therefore, if we only believe what we see with our senses, we are missing the big picture of the reality of the universe.

Physicists are working to find a mathematical solution to the “Theory of Everything” that combines Relativity and Quantum theories. It appears to be impossible to create a mathematical formula that merges the two.

I propose that we think of the Theory of Everything as a three-legged stool. General Relativity theory as one leg and Quantum theory as the second leg. Scientists have been trying to find the Theory of Everything that

A new paradigm for belief in God based on His reason for creating the universe. It has been developed from the integration of Bible text, insights from the Holy Spirit, and what has been learned from science. The result is "The Theory of Everything".
