

In "What the Hell Is Going On?" Donald Lee pulls together evidence from a dozen disciplines to make sense out of a senseless world. He "connects the dots" on a web of fraud that is leading inexorably to a one-world totalitarian tyranny.

PRAISE FOR

What the Hell Is Going On?

“Donald Lee’s new book, What the Hell is Going On, defies the mainstream Covid-19 narrative and instead goes for a ‘spiritual’ journey to see what the whole Covid-19 pandemic narrative means for all of us. Surprise! Covid-19 is not just a struggle against a common cold virus that arose spontaneously, but rather is a calculated attempt by a small group of connected billionaires to control humanity. If you didn’t know that before, you should have, as Lee makes very clear in his thorough documentation of the historical/political trends and power plays that have led us to this moment in history.

This work adds to a rapidly growing perspective that we are in a battle for the soul of humanity in which one of two very different futures will occur: That of the World Economic Forum’s Klaus Schwab which projects a world in which humans are chattel who ‘own nothing, but are happy,’ versus one that champions human freedom. In this, Lee demonstrates the nature of the spiritual/cultural war that humanity is embroiled in.

Not sure if he is correct or what’s really going on? Read the book and then make up your mind: You will be surprised, maybe horrified, but you won’t emerge with the same set of conclusions you went in with.”

—Christopher A. Shaw, Ph.D.
Professor, Dept. of Ophthalmology,
University of British Columbia

“As an assertive Covid activist and persecuted pathologist, I can attest that What the Hell is Going On? is a well-researched, one-stop Covid resource, from historical correlates to the predicted global catastrophe. It rings the alarm louder than the truckers’ honking. So, advice to readers: Do not open before bed!”

—Dr Roger Hodkinson,
the Canadian pathologist with red shoes

“One of the greatest struggles for the average person during the COVID ‘pandemic’ was discerning truth from lies, real information from disinformation. In this brilliant and well-researched book, Donald Lee connects the dots for us, showing us our collective history and how seemingly separate isolated events are actually connected together in a web of lies and deceit.

What I appreciate most about this book is that its foundation is spiritual, not religious, peaceful, and not enraged. One of my favorite lines from the book: In this spiritual war, our strategy is love, our tactic is forgiveness, our weapon is non-violent, non-cooperation. I couldn’t agree more.”

Introduction

“I would rather have questions that can’t be answered than answers that can’t be questioned.” –RICHARD FEYNMAN

What’s really going on in the world is not what appears to be going on. The picture we see on the surface is not the real picture. For many years I tried to make sense of it. After much research, I’ve put some of the pieces together. I wrote this book to give you a context, a framework, a pattern, so you can understand what’s going on around you. I paint a picture for you, a “connect-the-dots” outline. I don’t have all the answers, but like the opening quote says, I’m questioning the answers we’ve been given.

Why do I see patterns others don’t? Maybe it’s because I’m not an expert in anything. I’m a generalist. I have a degree in economics and an interest in monetary theory, so I see some of the financial and currency fraud. But I’m not so much of an economist that I have the institutional blinders—the “inside-the-box” thinking—of academic economists. I’ve had enough experience with mathematics, statistics, and mathematical modeling to understand the fundamental deceptions perpetrated by “models.” I’m an avid student of history and see the parallels with other dark times. My interest in past wars has helped me see what’s happening in this current World War III. Having grown up during the Cold War, I understand something of the disinformation and propaganda once again engulfing our world.

My lifelong spiritual quest gives me a broad view of the nature of this spiritual war and its physical manifestations. I'm not a scientist, but my career has intersected with scientists enough to glimpse how scientific fraud works. I've dabbled enough in philosophy to see how its perversion has distorted the worldview of almost everyone. And perhaps the dichotomy of being both a musician and an athlete, a humanitarian and a hunter, a spiritualist and a strategist, I have achieved enough of a balance between left-brain and right-brain and between my masculine and feminine natures to offer a bit of balance to a world desperately lacking it. Breakthroughs often come when someone connects ideas from disparate fields of study. That's exactly what I've done in this book—connected dots from seemingly unrelated fields to present a picture that very few people perceive amidst the “noise” of too much data and deliberate obfuscation.

I want to help you see more clearly, or to at least perceive events differently. It's not really a question of whether I'm right or wrong. No doubt I am “wrong” about some things. We can perceive things from many sides, many perspectives. Every perspective adds greater understanding. My goal is to help you perceive differently so you can see the “connect-the-dots” picture I see. We are at a turning point and we must choose either right or left, freedom or slavery, life or death.

I'm sure you've noticed the crazy happenings all over our world in recent years. Like me, you've probably asked, “What the hell is going on?” No one seems to know. Crazy events seem isolated, spontaneous, unrelated. Lies and fraud seem to be everywhere. Who is telling the truth? Who can you trust? We have trusted our institutions, governments, the free press, and scientists. All that seems to have been a mistake.

How can there be a “climate emergency” when the climate has not changed noticeably during my lifetime? How can the world be on the brink of burning up when it's colder now than at most points during human civilization? How can we fight a war on drugs for fifty years yet both the drug problem and the war apparatus constantly get bigger?

How could there be a worldwide “pandemic” when there were no excess deaths anywhere in 2020? How can it be that “we're all in this together” when American billionaires added 40 percent to their aggregate net worth in less than a year while millions of ordinary people lost their jobs or watched their businesses bankrupted?¹

Why is it that the answer to every problem seems to be more power and control for governments? Why is it that the real power doesn't seem to be in elected governments at all? Why is it that every government in the Western World seems to be taking its marching orders from the World Economic Forum? The WEF put out a propaganda film about “built back better” and “the Great Reset,” and immediately every leader in the world was parroting those terms. What the hell is going on?

What's the connection between all these things? Is there a connection? Are they all independent and randomly spontaneous social developments? Is it all just an accident? Or are we the victims of a carefully planned and targeted, multigenerational, totalitarian subversive war? These events seem to be planned, but even if they weren't, it doesn't matter. Like pregnancy, planned or unplanned, the result is the same. Whether by accident or conspiracy, we are on the road to totalitarian slavery.

We are quickly moving toward a one-world totalitarian government—the New World Order—where most people will have been murdered and the rest turned into mechanical/human cyborgs monitored and controlled with artificial intelligence. Most work will be done by robots and most human lives will be slavery. This is what the World Economic Forum and the United Nations have planned. It's not hard to understand. But it's hard to believe. It is unbelievable. You have to see the evidence to believe it. That's what this book is about—evidence.

Our “elites” have been using an ever-widening web of fraud to hide their totalitarian control. We are being manipulated with fear to willingly acquiesce to an ever-greater loss of freedom and independence.

But there is hope. We can still escape to freedom. But freedom comes with responsibility. There's a spiritual dimension—and this is key. The war is being waged against us with fear. We must respond with love, the opposite of fear. In this spiritual war, our strategy is love, our tactic is forgiveness, and our weapon is nonviolent noncooperation.

Humans are fundamentally spiritual beings. That's why the transhuman cyborg is devolution, not evolution—a step down, not a step up. It is not integration with machines that will make us better—it is integration with God. That’s where we will find both freedom and the kind of life everyone imagines as ideal. Life is never really ideal. An ideal, by definition, is something unattainable. We have an image of an “ideal life,” where every person is treated with dignity and respect, where we live in peace and love with each other, where all are free to pursue their own goals and legitimate desires, where we behave as stewards of the world around us, and where we help ever, hurt never. We are far from that ideal. But we could come much closer to it. In fact, I think it is our destiny to do so.

The hour is late. We have been asleep. We have been surrendering in every battle because we didn’t even know we were at war. Now is the final battle. I am not exaggerating. It may already be too late. Like the tiny army of men before the Gates of Mordor, we shiver in fear. Many have lost hope in the success of Frodo, the small, Christlike suffering hero struggling against the overwhelming powers of darkness. We feel individually powerless. Yet Frodo dwells within each of us. We have forgotten what power lies within every human heart. Perhaps I am naïve to think we might still win back our freedom and prevent the destruction of the whole world. Let me explain what I see going on and how I think we can still win.

The Spiritual Perspective

“Telling the truth is the secret of all true spirituality, and in order to tell the truth, you must find out what truth is.” –NIRMALA

The way we have been taught to see the world is not how the world is. Only by perceiving differently can we see the truth. On the surface, this concept may seem strange, but there is always a different way to see the world. Do you see the world the way CNN presents it? Do you see the world the way the president of the United States sees it? Do you see the world the way the Dalai Lama sees it? You can be sure that you don't see the world the way God sees it. As you read this book, please be open to perceiving things differently.

The greatest miracle is to change your perception. Perceive differently, and the world you see changes. If you are willing to accept it, what you perceive is a projection of what you believe. Belief is that powerful. Control of belief is the most powerful control. As we will see in this book, you have given that power to others. Take it back.

Many of the people and institutions we have trusted our whole lives can no longer be trusted. They have methodically lied for years, in some cases for decades, in a way that can only be called fraud. Thus, the title and theme of this book. When we begin to compare the lies to the evidence, we see a pattern and we see the motivation for the lies and fraud.

This is a very difficult change of worldview—of perception. Making even small changes to our worldview is difficult.

Perceiving differently and questioning the official stories challenges us on every level of our being. It is an intellectual challenge because we have to sift through evidence to discern what is fact and what is not. It is a psychological challenge because part of our identity is tied up with our understanding of our society and the world around us. Changing our understanding of the world means changing our understanding of who we are in that world. It is also a spiritual challenge because part of the reason we are here in this material world is to discern truth from illusion.

It's not surprising then, that many people refuse to deal with these challenges and prefer to simply go along with what they are told by "official" sources. But today, so many "official" stories are completely at odds with observable evidence. And so many people who are legitimate experts in their fields are censored and labelled as "conspiracy theorists" that ordinary folks cannot help but ask, "What the hell is going on?" To think that our most trusted institutions are completely corrupt and fraudulent is just too much for many people to accept. They will reject these ideas without seriously considering them. At the outset, please understand that very little in this book is opinion, speculation, or theory. Almost everything is verifiable fact, evidence, and history.

It seems simple, but it's really so complex I had to write a whole book just to scratch the surface of it. I have tried to present evidence to help you perceive things differently without overwhelming you. Let's begin with my central theme: lies and fraud.

The Consequence of Lies

For democracy and a free society to flourish, truth and honesty are required. Lies are destructive on so many levels. We have taken for granted that most people are basically good and honest. This has changed. Honesty used to be one of the most valued virtues in Western civilization. This is no longer true. The consequences are immense.

Totalitarianism, the opposite of democracy, is based on lies and deceit.

If we allow these to flourish, we will end up in communism, fascism, or some other variety of totalitarianism.

When Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn was expelled from the Soviet Union in 1974, he wrote a farewell essay to his countrymen titled “Live Not By Lies.”¹ His point was that if you refuse to accept the lies, communism will collapse. Communism is a system built on lies. It is a debilitating and dehumanizing life of lies that destroys the human—body, mind, and spirit. St. John Paul II called it the pulverization of the human person.²

Anyone who has lived under communism knows this. The Russian writer Elena Gorokhova said in A Mountain of Crumbs, “The rules are simple: they lie to us, we know they’re lying, they know we know they’re lying, but they keep lying to us, and we keep pretending to believe them.”³

Here is a basic pattern to learn. Mistakes frequently occur one at a time; lies, never. As most of us discovered in our youth, you can never tell just one lie. The first lie always needs a second lie to cover up the first, and a third to cover up the second, and so on. One lie quickly becomes a web of lies. A web of lies is never the pattern of a mistake. It is always the pattern of fraud. Most people have assumed that our leaders are chronically stupid and have made mistake after mistake. A web of mistakes is nearly as rare as a unicorn. These people are not idiots, but liars. These are not errors, but frauds. It’s all about pattern recognition—and never assume you have found the pattern of a unicorn.

As I look around our society today, I am surrounded by lies, many of which will be exposed in this book. Do not acquiesce to the fraud and lies surrounding you. Do not accept lies from your friends, your family, your neighbors, your bosses, your employees, your teachers, your pupils, your politicians, your doctors, your lawyers, your judges—not even from yourself. Accept only truth. Seek the truth. As St. Paul says, “Let your minds be filled with everything that is true” (Phil 4:8).⁴ And the Master Teacher said, “Know the truth, and the truth will set you free” (Jn 8:32).⁵ Freedom cannot coexist with lies.

I refer to spiritual leaders because our war is fundamentally a spiritual war. It must be, because everything is fundamentally spiritual. As Pierre Teilhard de Chardin famously said, “We are not human beings having a spiritual experience, we are spiritual beings having a human experience.”⁶

The spiritual dimension of our conflict has many levels. Whatever your spiritual or religious background, you can perceive the truths through the lens of your own understanding. You can even perceive it simply through the lens of psychology and history.

Understanding the Spiritual Reality of Our Conflict

“But know that mercy and truth and justice and love are the gift of the divine. And you may only attain the knowledge of such by BEING such, manifesting such, in thy daily walks of life—in thy associations one with another.” —EDGAR CAYCE

To be human is to have a spirit—a soul, created by that benevolent creative energy that I choose to call “God”—fused into a material, animal body. Since some people are put off by the word “God,” let me be clear at the outset that it doesn’t matter how you name or conceive this idea. Call it “the Universe,” “the Source,” “Creative Forces,” “Infinite Intelligence.” It doesn’t matter. Nobody fully understands it anyway.

We have both a higher nature—a divine nature—and a lower nature—an animal nature. By focusing on our lower nature, we become more like animals. By focusing on our higher nature, we become more like God, our Father. It is an important spiritual law that whatever we focus our attention on grows. That is the essence of free will. We choose. We can raise ourselves higher than angels or drag ourselves lower than animals. The human species has produced almost godlike individuals—individuals who have given us examples of transcendence, in whom we glimpse the divine within ourselves. Yet the human species has also produced individuals more horrible than the worst creature in horror movies. Animals kill only for food or protection. Yet humans can kill each other for dozens of insignificant reasons—even for the simple sadistic joy of killing. Animals don’t do this. Only humans can sink to this level. That is the blessing and the curse of free will.

God gives us free will as, perhaps, the greatest spiritual gift. It is an absolutely crucial aspect of our spirit, mind, and body. Take away our free will, and we cease to be truly human. It is impossible to overstate the importance of free will. We will see this again and again.

We can perceive the spiritual aspect of the present conflict in many ways.

1. Lower Human Needs vs. Higher Human Needs
2. Western Tradition: Darkness vs. Light
3. Fear vs. Love
4. Controlling Others vs. Controlling Self
5. Eastern Tradition: Energy Centers
6. A New Great Age

Let's look at each one more carefully.

Lower Human Needs vs. Higher Human Needs

Those who have no religious or spiritual understanding can perceive our present situation in psychological terms. The famous psychologist Abraham Maslow developed his hierarchy of human needs from the obvious idea that some of our needs and desires are more basic and urgent than others. For example, if you are choking, nothing matters except getting air. If you are dying of thirst, nothing matters except getting water. Even though it's presented in various levels, Maslow was clear that life is not so cut-and-dried. Even little children experience the love of beauty (aesthetic needs) and the joy that comes from helping others (self-transcendence). Through the power of your own will, you can transcend lower needs and focus on higher ones, as thousands of heroic stories from POW camps attest. Yet the logic of the hierarchy is self-evident. In a healthy person, all these needs will be understood, acted upon, and some level of fulfillment achieved.⁷

1. Biological Needs: air, water, food, clothing, sleep, shelter, sex.
2. Safety Needs: personal security, employment, health, resources, property.

3. Love and Belonging Needs: friendship, intimacy, family, sense of connection.
4. Esteem Needs: respect, self-esteem, status, recognition, strength, freedom.
5. Cognitive Needs: knowledge, understanding, curiosity, exploration, meaning, predictability.
6. Aesthetic Needs: beauty, form, balance, art, culture.
7. Self-Actualization Needs: desire to become all that one can be, creativity, desire for peak experiences and personal growth.
8. Self-Transcendence Needs: spiritual and psychic experiences, service to others, pursuit of ideals, realization that fulfillment comes only from going beyond the self.

Our present world is mostly focused on the lower two levels of Maslow's hierarchy. We must seek a balance and develop all eight levels of human needs. The next level that requires work is love.

Western Tradition: Darkness vs. Light

The Western religious traditions (Judaism, Christianity, Islam) teach a dualistic spiritual understanding that I summarize as Darkness vs. Light. You can perceive this concept as Satan vs. God, material vs. spiritual, and so on. In a very simplified understanding of the human condition, we can perceive ourselves as animals (our lower/egoic self) with a higher self that is spiritual (our higher/divine self). Pick whichever terms you are familiar with. We are, in a sense, higher or more developed than all other animals. Our higher nature perceives beauty, communicates, creates, modifies its environment, loves, has greater sentience, perceives a divine reality, and seeks meaning to a much greater extent than any other animal.

Many people today, and our present society in general, are mostly focused on our animal nature. But we have come to a point in the development of human civilization that we face the very real risk of destroying ourselves if we don't raise our focus to our higher self. This is the essence of the Great Awakening—awakening to our spiritual nature.

Those who understand the human condition as an amalgam of divine self (or soul, or higher self) and ego (or egoic self, or animal/instinctive nature) will understand that disaster ensues if we allow ourselves to be ruled by the ego. We must focus our attention on our divine self to rise above the fear that characterizes the ego, and live in the consciousness of universal love—our divine nature.

Jesus directed us to turn away from material things—wealth, power, and the desires of the body. He directed us to focus on spiritual things, and the way to do this is through love.

Fear vs. Love

It may seem surprising, but fear is the opposite of love. You might think it is hatred, but if you meditate on this you will realize that hatred is the child of fear. Think about what you hate, and you will find fear behind it. Dispel the fear, and the hatred dissolves. Every true spiritual teaching insists there is nothing to fear. We dispel fear with love. If you can fill yourself with love, all fear melts away like a snowman in July. St. John said, “Perfect love drives out fear” (1 Jn 4:18).⁸

Jesus taught love. The elites of his time—like the elites of all times—were focused on money and power. Jesus taught that love was what they were missing. Love completes the Law of Moses. Love is what helps you transcend power and money, what raises you to a higher level of consciousness—what Jesus called the “Kingdom of God.” Every true spiritual tradition teaches love, but only with Jesus was it the main focus. He made it so simple. We have complicated it. Jesus summed up all spiritual teaching with “Love God, love everyone.” All the rest is commentary. Two thousand years later, we still haven’t learned that simple lesson. We have been working on it long enough. The final exam is upon us.

Controlling Others vs. Controlling Self (Free Will)

We can also perceive this dichotomy as controlling others vs. controlling self. The desire to control others ultimately leads to totalitarianism and slavery—great power for a few, great servitude for many, the destruction of free will, and the descent to a lower level of spiritual consciousness and material existence. True spiritual traditions teach their followers to work on self-control, not the control of others. Each of us is on our own unique and individual spiritual journey. We cannot live the life of another, nor travel the path of another, nor truly help another by controlling them. In controlling others, you take away their free will and make them dependent upon you. Just as we know when raising our children, you truly help others when you help them to be independent—when you help them to exercise their own free will wisely.

You may have heard the ancient Chinese aphorism. Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime. I say, give a man a fish and you make him your slave. (He is dependent upon you for his survival.) Teach him how to fish, and you set him free. Any attempt to control others is ultimately detrimental to them and to us on every level.

On a political level, controlling ourselves rather than others results in democracy and liberty. If you did not notice the creeping social control over the past decades, you must have noticed it during this covid fraud. Everyone in the world has been coerced to do silly, nonsensical, and self-destructive things because of the incredible political, legal, and social control that now exists in our society.

As you read through this book, keep in the back of your mind this question: “Are these people seeking to control themselves or to control others?” It’s an illuminating question. Fear and evil seek to control others. Love seeks to control only the self.

Eastern Traditions: Energy Centers

From the perspective of Eastern religious traditions (Hinduism, Buddhism), we can see this conflict in terms of our energy centers, which are called chakras. Here is a quick and superficial explanation.⁹

Chakra	Location	Major Focus	Perspective of One Under This Influence
1	Base of the spine	Security & Survival	Everyone is a potential threat—xenophobia.
2	Genitals	Sex	Constantly on the prowl for new sexual experiences or partners, fantasizing about sex.
3	Solar plexus	Status & Power	Constantly striving to assess and improve power relationships and image in the eyes of others.
4	Center of the chest	Agape Love	Sees every personal interaction as an experience of universal love.
5	Throat	Creativity & Communication	Every personal interaction stimulates creativity—something is produced or planned.
6	Third eye—Mid-forehead	Psychic Awareness	The inner senses are awakened. Personal interactions are perceived on an energetic level, auras may be seen, energy dynamics are perceived in others and in relationships.
7	Top of the head	Transcendence	Sees all things and people as Maya (illusion). Others are perceived as unique manifestations of the Oneness. The person is detached from the world—in the world but not of it—and has compassion for others' suffering but is not perturbed by it.

You may notice the obvious similarity between the chakras and Maslow's human needs. It reflects the unity of our triune nature—spirit, mind, and body. Just as every healthy person expresses all levels of Maslow's needs, everyone perceives and expresses through all seven chakras, though not equally. Each chakra has its own energy, its own power. All are important, as is the balance of these energies. It's not that the lower chakras (security, sex, power) are "bad." It's not an issue of good or bad. It's a question of balancing the energies—controlling our sexual energy and directing it in creative and productive ways, focusing our desire to control others into a desire to control ourselves, transmuting our survival instinct and suspicion of others into a universal love for all people, and transcending the material to perceive our Oneness.

The philosophies and ideologies dominating our world are exclusively focused on the lower three chakras—fear, xenophobia, sex, and power. This is partly because these ideologies are Materialistic, denying the existence of any aesthetic or spiritual reality, as we will see in chapter 2.

Fear, sex, and power are the tools of manipulation and control being used against us. They draw our attention to the lower three chakras and leave us unbalanced. The heart chakra, the sense of universal love, is the pivot between the lower/material and the higher/transcendent chakras. Love is the key. Love is the answer. In the perception of the first chakra, everyone is an enemy to be feared. In the perception of the seventh chakra, everyone is an alternate expression of oneself, to be loved as oneself. We must balance our chakra energies and perceive differently.

As individuals and as a society, we must make the transition from the third chakra to the fourth—from a focus on power to a focus on love. This is the transformation the earth is presently going through. Some call it the transition from third density to fourth density. Love and wisdom (found in the higher chakras) must control the lower chakras if we are to ascend spiritually and have material peace on earth. If we remain stuck in the energies of the lower three chakras, humanity will devour itself. There is no end to the lust for power; it must be transcended with love.

A New Great Age

Many esoteric traditions teach that the world, and human consciousness, moves through various great ages with different dominant characteristics. For example, Hindu cosmology describes the Yuga Cycle with four major divisions. We are currently in the Kali Yuga, or Iron Age, in which humanity is so disconnected from spiritual reality that most people can only perceive the material world and not the spiritual world. Even though there is a long time yet in the Kali Yuga, humanity is beginning its spiritual ascent out of this dark age and into a more spiritually enlightened age.

Many will recall the hype around 2012 (really 2011), the end of the Mayan calendar and the supposed end of the world. But it was not the end of the world, but the end of the age. The calendar represents stages of consciousness, and we have now entered the stage of universal consciousness.

In Western Astrology, the ages are divided into the twelve sections of the zodiac and each age lasts about two thousand years. Jesus ushered in the Age of Pisces, which is now ending. We are transitioning into the Age of Aquarius, which, compared to the Age of Pisces, will be dominated by humanitarianism rather than authoritarianism, spirituality rather than religion, natural law rather than man's law, love rather than power.

We can perceive the changes we are presently seeing in the world as the move to a new great age. You can call this shift an enlightenment, an awakening, an apocalypse. The transition will be unsettling, messy, chaotic. Yet every esoteric tradition teaches that we are moving into an age of greater spiritual connectedness and enlightenment—a better world. This perspective should give us great hope. Your choice is to work on your own spiritual ascension or to descend into a darker existence. You will choose either love or fear.

Love and Forgiveness: The Way Out Is the Way Up

The world is going through a spiritual transition. It is a spiritual war—a test like the “refiner’s fire” which purifies us. It is a trial we must pass through, like boot camp for the soul. How you perceive the transition is less important than understanding it is happening and recognizing that we have a choice to evolve to a higher level of spiritual development or devolve to a lower level. This choice hinges on our choice of love or fear. Love will cause us to ascend, fear to descend. You can choose only for yourself.

Our adversary wants to keep us mired in fear, hatred, and division, as well as distracted by sex, money, power, and the gratification of material desires. Whatever is done to us in the great frauds of our time, if we respond in kind—with anger, hatred, fear, and violence—we lose. If we respond with the weapons that are used against us, humanity will consume itself. We must respond with God’s weapon—love. Our strategy is love, our tactic is forgiveness, and our weapon is nonviolent noncooperation. Only by responding with love will we pass through this time of “trial by fire.” We can ascend to a higher consciousness and a world of peace only through love.

Everyone in our world is hurting, is wounded, is in need of healing. Only forgiveness heals. Only forgiveness dissolves the bonds of karma. Only forgiveness opens your heart and allows you to love. People have tried to heal our wounds with revenge, with restitution and retribution, even with fake reconciliation—all to no avail. The freedom we seek—not just political freedom, but emotional freedom, professional freedom, spiritual freedom—can only be found in the healing that comes from forgiveness. Instead of attacking others, criticizing others, and judging others, we must forgive others.

Only by turning to God within will we perceive, with spiritual eyes, this spiritual war and understand our role in transforming ourselves and our world. Only by turning again to God can we regain our freedom. Those of you who know the Bible will remember that every time the people of Israel turned away from God, destruction followed. We’ve done it again. Western civilization has turned away from God.

You may wonder how and why we turned away from God, and how this can possibly matter. It matters for several reasons. One is that ideas have consequences. The fate of civilizations ultimately rests upon the ideas that motivate the masses. In the next chapter, we turn our attention to the ideas that dominate our thinking and how that came to be.

What You Can Do Now

1. It's all about pattern recognition. Look for patterns—in ideas, behaviors, and events. People lie. Actions reveal motives. Your analysis of patterns will lead you to the truth.
2. Love. Find ways to incorporate more love into your thinking, speaking, and acting. Only through love can we, both individually and collectively, transcend the fear, division, hatred, and addiction that enslaves everyone.
3. Most importantly, turn back to God—especially if you have turned away from God. Recognize that you are an eternal spiritual being on a spiritual journey. Seek your own spiritual development in whatever way seems best to you. In truth, there are no wrong paths to God.
4. Pray and meditate. Both are important to developing your connection to the spirit within you and without you. Prayer is talking to God. Meditation is listening. God is always speaking to us; we are rarely listening. Meditation develops our listening skills. God is the loving Father who will guide us if we allow Him. God is the Force who never forces. Free will is at the root of our “humanness.” Join free will to love, and you will become the best you can be.
5. Join a spiritual community that suits you. Meet weekly with other like-minded people to help each other—help on your spiritual journeys, on your understanding of what is really going on in the world, and in meeting your material needs in the difficult times that are upon us.
6. Read this book, read other books, open your eyes, widen your perspective, and see the lies and fraud that surround us. Lies enslave. The truth will set you free.
7. Live not by lies. Do not accept or acquiesce to the lies and fraud. Resist with the strategy of love, the tactic of forgiveness, and the weapon of nonviolent noncooperation.

CHAPTER 19

Solutions—The Escape to Freedom

“Liberty is not the right to do as we please but the opportunity to do what is right.”

—REVEREND PETER MARSHALL

A New Level of Thinking

“A new type of thinking is essential if mankind is to survive and move toward higher levels.” —ALBERT EINSTEIN

If we accept that nuclear weapons can be used in war and that war can be used to solve problems, then sooner or later we will arrive at the destruction of all life on this planet. In fact, we have come very close to this on at least three occasions during my lifetime. Since no one considers this a desirable outcome, we must find a different way of thinking—a different way of solving problems. As a general rule for both individuals and nations, we must find solutions that do not involve killing people. We are better than that. We have to be better than that.

Communism is a philosophy of power. Einstein correctly observed that we cannot solve our problems of power on the level that created those problems. We cannot allow ourselves to take the path of violence. Totalitarianism concentrates power into few hands. As the founding fathers understood, freedom can only exist when power is dispersed—when it is in the hands of everyone. We've had our warning. We need a new paradigm—a new way of thinking. Let me illustrate what I mean with an example from history.

Up to medieval times, cities had protective walls. If anyone had suggested tearing them down and living differently, they would have been rejected as a fool. Yet today no cities have defensive walls. What happened? Artillery happened. Artillery made city walls useless, and people had to think differently. Today, we must once again rethink our “walls.” But these are not physical walls.

There is a new iron curtain going up everywhere in the world, but it does not separate geography. World War III is unlike any war in history. In this fifth-generation war, the enemy is invisible. The weapons are electronic, psychological, chemical, and biological. The new iron curtain is tearing apart every family, every community, every nation. We are at war with ourselves. Walls are going up between brothers and sisters, husbands and wives, parents and children. The True Believers who are hypnotized are on one side, the Rebels who perceive what's going on are on the other side. As I have said many times, this is fundamentally a spiritual war and our defense must be spiritual—fought with love, not with force. We must reach across these walls with love and extend a loving hand to anyone who is willing to open their eyes and hearts. The new iron curtain also tries to separate us from God. Seek Him within. He is as close as your breathing.

Just as the lie of Marxism and its physically destructive results stems from a spiritual lie—the denial of God—humanity's physical salvation lies in a spiritual truth. Almost paradoxically, to solve the problems of the world, we must go beyond the world. To solve the problems of philosophy, we must go beyond philosophy. To solve the problems of man, we must turn to God.

The human race has a choice between rebirth and catastrophe. Either we move beyond our present way of thinking, or we will descend into a living hell of violence and oppression. There is no longer a middle path. Fear holds us in the egoic, animal state of consciousness. Love moves us into the divine state of consciousness. The walls we have to tear down are the walls that stop us from loving our neighbors—all our neighbors.

We Have Forgotten God—The Spiritual War

“The most profound analysts of the totalitarian societies of the 20th-century...come to the same conclusion. The totalitarian states would not have been possible without the moral corruption of the individuals within that society.”—JORDAN PETERSON

Journalist Jean Chen related the following story in a recent article.

In 1983, at the Templeton Prize award ceremony in London, Alexander Solzhenitsyn, a survivor of the Soviet Gulag concentration camp, began his remarks with the following memorable words:

“More than half a century ago, while I was still a child, I recall hearing a number of older people offer the following explanation for the great disasters that had befallen Russia: Men have forgotten God; that’s why all this has happened.

“Since then I have spent well-nigh fifty years working on the history of our Revolution...But if I were asked today to formulate as concisely as possible the main cause of the ruinous Revolution that swallowed up some sixty million of our people, I could not put it more accurately than to repeat: Men have forgotten God; that’s why all this has happened.”¹

We must turn to God. If we succeed in this spiritual war, our victory will be a spiritual victory. And every spiritual war is fought within. Our descent into technocratic totalitarianism is fundamentally caused by the denial of God, which is the denial of love; the worship of power and wealth; the practice of violence, greed, envy, and oppression. It is the choice of death instead of life.

The human disaster that the Deep State oligarchs are heading toward springs from the materialist philosophy of Karl Marx—from a worldview that denies God and attempts to destroy God. We need a higher level of thinking. Humans are not electro-chemical machines to be compared with robots in a simple measure of efficiency. Our purpose for being in this world is not simply a selfish, hedonistic enjoyment of material comforts. And reality itself is not just material reality. Things are not as they seem.

It should come as no surprise that a philosophy that denies the soul, sees human existence only through the narrow lens of eternal class conflict, and exalts power as the supreme human virtue, results in a hell on earth, bereft of peace and love and joy, and most notable for its pulverization of the human person. If you accept the existence of God in any way, then you should be able to understand this cause-consequence relationship. As individuals, and as a society, we either move toward God or away from God. As we move toward God, we will increasingly experience the presence of God: love, peace, joy, compassion, honesty, justice, equality. As we move away from God, especially if we try to attack God, we will increasingly experience the opposite: fear, hatred, anger, violence, destruction, envy, greed, pride, selfishness.

In Truth, there is a greater reality—a spiritual reality—of which the material world is merely a projection, a reflection, an avatar. We are spiritual beings having a human experience. We are created in the image and likeness of God. God is Light and Love. So are we. We are eternal beings of Light and Love. Our purpose in this world is to love, to be love, to manifest in physical form the love that we truly are, to be portals through which the Love that is God shines forth into materiality.

This is the higher level of thinking that will lead us out of the darkness that is closing in around us. When we begin to incorporate this thinking into our actions, there will be no need to fight against racism or sexism or any other “ism.” There will be no need to fight anything. Love does not fight. Love is what you are. The only difficult question becomes “What does love look like in this particular situation?” For Love is not always gentle—sometimes it is firm. Love does not always say “yes”—sometimes it says “no.” Love is the beginning for some things—but the ending for other things. Love always forgives—but Love does not remove consequences. Love does not wish for pain—neither does it avoid pain. There is a time for everything under the sun, and the time has come for some things to end. The time has come for lies to end, for fraud to end, for corruption to end, for excessive state and quasi-state power to end. The time has come for a new rebirth of freedom.

The Deep State seeks power over others. But the greatest power is God. The power we seek will not be found in AI but in God—in uniting ourselves with God so completely that His power works through us. Our future lies in realizing that we are One in spirit, not in government. Our unity lies in our humanity and in our spiritual kinship, not in any one-world government.

The Deep State's oppression is sparking a reaction—a reaction of Love. People everywhere, perhaps faced with the common enemy of communism and billionaire oligarchs, are awakening to our common essence. Our uprising in love will lead not only to our emancipation from world tyranny but also to a unity of peace, respect, and understanding that has been the eternal vision of reformers. But the reformation must be in our own hearts. The time has come for all of us to embrace our oneness as members of the human family. To realize there are no strangers, only friends we haven't met yet. It is the unity of good that will abolish the tyranny of evil.

There is no utopia. Perfection is not a characteristic of this universe. Human existence is always full of problems and difficulties. We constantly encounter other people who are selfish, hateful, egotistic, prideful, violent, and fearful. And we constantly encounter these evils within our own hearts. Part of our purpose in this life is to learn to deal with all this and to transcend it through love. If there were no problems, then we would have no opportunity to choose love. The choice to improve the world is always the choice to improve ourselves, never to coerce others.

Whatever sin or evil you think you see in another, it is within you—since we are all one. You can never correct the evil by condemning your brother. You must replace it with love in your own heart. These beautiful words of Edgar Cayce are perhaps even more appropriate today than when he first spoke them almost a century ago in the depths of the Second World War. They summarize the attitude and actions we must adopt today, in the depths of the Third World War.

Men may not have the same idea, but man, all men may have the same ideal.

As the spirit of God moved to bring peace and harmony out of chaos, so must the Spirit now move over the earth and magnify itself in the hearts and minds and souls of men that they may dwell together in peace, harmony and understanding; for peace and harmony may only come from having the one ideal as set by Him who gave: “Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, thine neighbor as thyself.” This is the whole law, this the answer to the world’s troubles today. This ideal in the heart and soul of each will bring peace and plenty out of chaos.

How shall this be brought about? As each, in his respective sphere, puts into action that which he knows to be the fulfilling of that ideal, that law of love, so will the little leaven the whole lump.

Man’s answer to everything has been POWER—power of money, power of position, power of this, that or the other. This has never been God’s way. Rather, little by little, line upon line, here a little, there a little. When individuals have taken thought of others, they have kept the world intact. Where there were ten just persons, even, many a city, many a nation, has been saved from destruction. We may feel or think the lesson given Abraham as he viewed the cities of the plain and plead for them is an allegorical story, a beautiful tale to be told children that it might bring fear into their hearts, but may it not warm our hearts today? Will you make your own heart right and answer for your brother and neighbor? Who is your neighbor? he that lives next door, or he that lives on the other side of the world? Rather, he who has faltered, he who has fallen by the way; he is your neighbor, and you must answer for him.²

What we need most today is not AI or 5G. There is no real need to be served by robots or to have our cars drive themselves or to have our refrigerators tell us when the cottage cheese is moldy or to download video games in three seconds to our cell phones or to pay for our beer by waving our hand at a scanner or for our phone to tell us our blood pressure. We have no need to idle away our lives playing video games in a fantasy metaverse.

But there is a need for every soul on earth to find the true meaning of their life through creative service to their brothers and sisters. There is a need for every one of us to help those around us to become all they can be. Perhaps ironically, it is in this way that we become all that we can be. As Maslow finally realized, self-actualization is achieved through self-transcendence.

Your mission, should you choose to accept it, is to manifest this reality in your own life. The Real Great Reset needs to be dismantling the apparatus of oppression and setting free your brothers and sisters. We are fighting a battle against darkness, and the weapon of darkness is fear. Love disarms fear. The way you look at the world is the way the world looks back at you. Look with eyes of love. We are warriors of love. We are leaving the consciousness of fear and moving into the consciousness of love. This is the new level of thinking that will save all of us from disaster.

Justice, Forgiveness, and Healing

“The weak can never forgive. Forgiveness is the attribute of the strong.” —GANDHI

Many of you are ready to leave behind power struggles, strife, and hatred. Many are not. We need enough loving and forgiving people in our world that those who foment hatred and war no longer have the power to get others to follow them. Healing past injustices only comes through forgiveness—for ALL healing comes through forgiveness. Forgive yourself and forgive others. Replace your guilt and blame with love. The path of love does not travel through justice but through forgiveness. Desire for justice quickly transmutes into the desire for revenge.

But what of justice? We cannot simply forgive everything and allow ourselves to be enslaved by liars, thieves, murderers, and communists. Nor can we allow ourselves to descend into the same murderous rage that we decry in others. How are we to balance forgiveness on the one hand with justice on the other hand? This is always difficult.

The balance between forgiveness and justice was beautifully captured in the famous words of Jesus to the woman who was caught in adultery. The law of that time and place was clear. She was to be stoned to death. Jesus's final words to her were, "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more" (John 8:11). In short, "I'm not going to kill you, but you must stop doing those things." The unspoken implication being that if she doesn't stop committing adultery, sooner or later, she will be killed.

So it is with the liars, thieves, murderers, and communists who are running our world. We must remove them from their positions where they have been abusing their power. They should stand trial where there is clear evidence of criminality. But just as there is no justice and no peace in throwing stones at sin, we cannot simply grab our guns and start shooting people. That will turn us into murderers, drag our nations into endless violence, and hasten the advent of totalitarianism and world destruction. The balance between justice and forgiveness is to be found in nonviolent noncooperation.

Nonviolent Noncooperation

"One hundred thousand Englishman cannot control three hundred million Indians if the Indians simply refuse to cooperate." –GANDHI

As I have said before, we must follow the example of Mahatma Gandhi. In this spiritual war, our strategy is love, our tactic is forgiveness, our weapon is nonviolent noncooperation. If the majority of people refuse to cooperate with the dictatorial decrees of their government, that government will fall.

Millions of us all over the free world have been abdicating our responsibility to democracy. We have been “going along” with encroaching totalitarianism. Every one of us must find the courage to stand up and say “No.” We must say “no” to social media cancel smears. We must say “No, we don’t fire people from our company based on social media smear campaigns and trolls. We have a fair process in our company for resolving disagreements between people and healing relationships. If you have a complaint against our employee, you can come to our office and discuss it. Otherwise, go away.”

We must have the courage to stop financing totalitarian NGOs, and even political parties who don’t stand up for liberty and honesty. We must stop funding fraudulent science that is ideologically motivated. We must stop wearing useless face masks and allowing the government to inject unknown substances and biological weapons into our bodies. We must stop allowing our uniformed neighbors and friends to chastise us for visiting our children, playing sports, or singing.

We must stop the 5G system, which is fundamentally a weapons system. It is electromagnetic pollution that is destroying our minds and bodies. We must remove ourselves from the UN completely and all its many fraudulent control arms. We must re-establish sovereignty—of individuals, communities, and nation states. We must re-create our lost democracy. We must not allow the digitalization of everything. Especially, refuse to participate in the digital ID and digital currency systems.

Stop listening to music that appeals to your lowest animal nature and leads you to violence and hatred. Listen instead to music that uplifts, inspires, and leads to transcendence. Reject the Culture of Death, the Philosophy of Death, in all its many manifestations and turn again to God—in whatever way and along whatever path seems true to you and leads to love.

Stop watching television. It is through your screens that the government is controlling your mind. You must be a watchful gatekeeper of your mind and your consciousness. Over 90 percent of what you see there is not real. It is fiction. Media is narrative, and we are in a war of narratives.

Even the news is theater. It is carefully constructed so you will love the protagonist and hate the antagonist. The producers have already picked these roles for you. You are not making these judgments for yourself. You are simply absorbing the value judgments that someone else is intentionally foisting upon you to manipulate you. And Netflix is no better than the news. As bizarre as this sounds, it is all a giant web of mind control. Shut it all off. Be free.

The Rule of Law

“Liberty lies in the hearts of men and women; when it dies there, no constitution, no law, no court can save it; no constitution, no law, no court can even do much to help it.”—JUDGE BILLINGS LEARNED HAND

Everyone must insist on the rule of law, not the rule of quasi-dictators or the rule by law. Stand up for law and justice, particularly if you are part of the justice system—police, lawyers, prosecutors, judges, prison guards, soldiers. Remember that your allegiance is first to God, to justice, and to your constitution. International law at the Nuremberg trials affirmed that following orders is not a legal defense for any crime. You are called to maintain peace and order and to protect the weak from the abuses of the powerful. That is the noble task entrusted to you. Have courage. You signed on to be strong. Be strong. You have the duty to suppress violence, not stand idly by while rioters destroy property and assault peaceful citizens. You can refuse to enforce decrees that violate the constitution. You can refuse to issue tickets to people who simply choose to go to work, to open their businesses, to go for a walk in the park, or to attend their church. The freedoms to do these things are guaranteed in your constitution and in Natural Law.

You must have the courage to say “No” to your superiors when they give you orders that contravene divine law or constitutional law. You will face consequences. There are consequences for every action. However scary it might seem at the time, acting with love and justice brings the most favorable consequences possible. However bitter the pill of honesty may seem, the sickness of lies is worse.

Politicians, scientists, doctors, journalists, judges, lawyers—you have a fiduciary duty you are ignoring while you perpetrate fraud on the whole world. You will be brought to justice. You cannot escape the consequences of your present fraud. You are complicit unless you stand up for truth. It's time for all of you to come clean, tell the truth, and give up the lies and fraud and subversion that you have been perpetrating on the rest of us. The time has come to re-establish the rule of law, not the rule of men.

The End of Geopolitics

“You never change things by fighting the existing reality. To change something, build a new model that makes the existing model obsolete.” —BUCKMINSTER FULLER

Geopolitics is the study and practice of power. It is the grand game of global despots. People and nations are but pawns in this game of world domination. It's time to put away the game and start behaving like adults. No one can control the whole world. Any attempt to do so will kill us all.

Once you let go of your fear of your fellow human, your desire to control him vanishes. There is no need to fear a strong Iran, or a strong Turkey, or a strong Egypt, or a strong Iraq. There is no possibility that any of these countries could attack the United States, or Britain, or Germany. Nor do the people who live there have any desire to do so. We are being destroyed by our own fear. Let go of fear. Embrace the love that you are. Leave behind the adolescent game of geopolitical power—the giant game of Risk that our childish leaders fret and strut about. This has put all of us at risk. It's time to just stop.

The game of geopolitics is enabled by the political structures that have allowed power to be concentrated in so few hands. In almost every country, the national government is supreme and the provincial and local governments are, in a sense, creations of the national government. This is a “top-down” structure of power. We need to reverse this. We need to recognize that the basic unit of sovereignty is the individual, then the family, then the community, then the province, then the nation. Each higher level must be firmly restricted in its legal ability to impinge on the sovereignty of the lower levels. Power and responsibility need to be pushed down as far as possible. There is no need for federal power over education or health. These are concerns for the individual, the family, and the community.

The basic unit of government is the community or municipality. Various municipalities can voluntarily join together into leagues or provinces, somewhat akin to the Hanseatic League in Medieval Europe, or the cantons of Switzerland. Municipalities can join or leave at will and can define for themselves the benefits and responsibilities of membership. Such a league need not even be amongst geographically contiguous communities. Finally, leagues may join into nation states or leave them if they so choose. Thus, the power and responsibilities of governments are pushed down to the lowest possible level, and the potential for despotism is minimized because communities can simply leave. Under such a distribution of power, we would find little need for large standing armies or for “intelligence” organizations. Those individuals, communities, and leagues that are best able to foster cooperation, peace, and productivity will attract people and wealth to themselves. Those who try to build empires will find themselves isolated and powerless. This is the new level of thinking we need to save our world.

The Butterfly Will Emerge

“The end result, we know, is a butterfly, but the truly astonishing thing is that there is no structural similarity at all between a caterpillar and a butterfly.” –ROB EVANS

The world, and all the people in it, are going through an almost unbelievable and historically unprecedented metamorphosis. We are in the chrysalis. The caterpillar calls this the end of the world. Wisdom calls it a butterfly.

We are witnessing incredible destruction all around us. It is not just the human deaths. We are seeing the destruction of society, of the arts, of sports, of long-held beliefs, of whole professions, of industries, of our social structure, of respect for people and professions, and the list goes on. It is a form of societal collapse. This societal collapse is the final communist crisis and the excuse to impose totalitarian tyranny over the whole world. We know it's planned because we know every step leading up to it has been planned, because these events perfectly match the pattern of communist subversion, and because this societal collapse cannot possibly occur naturally.

This darkness is already upon us. There is no escaping the consequences we have already set in motion. The 2020s will be the most tumultuous decade of our lives. Already, we are seeing brother turn against brother. Social behavior is breaking down. Formerly good-willed people are wishing death upon their neighbors. In public, people treat each other with previously unheard-of cruelty while thinking themselves virtuous. Every family is torn apart by “vaxxed” vs. “unvaxxed.” Politics is being turned on its head. Leftists and rightists are aligning against tyranny. The older ideological divisions are giving way. Every traditional political party is captured by this tyranny and is self-destructing. What was inconceivable yesterday is happening today.

Economic disruption is everywhere. All the “shutdowns” were planned and unnecessary. All the “supply chain disruptions” were orchestrated for economic collapse. The “everything bubble” will soon pop, and billions of people will lose their life's savings. “By 2030 you will own nothing” was never a prediction. It was the plan. We cannot possibly have economic growth when so many resources are wasted. Just think about how many people, both within governments and without, are spending time and money dealing with nonexistent or engineered problems: fighting drugs, fighting terrorism, fighting the climate, fighting a virus. Think of all the government regulations, the work to comply with these regulations, the taxes, the weapons built then destroyed, the property destroyed, the lives snuffed out, the businesses disrupted, the money misspent. Think about how much richer everyone would be if all of us spent our time and effort actually solving real problems instead of misspending our time, talents, money, and creative energy on destructive and useless activities.

Many will struggle in the coming economic tribulation. We will need to help each other—our brothers and sisters. Do not turn to our corrupt and unreliable governments. Do it yourself. It is darkest just before the dawn. We are entering a great darkness before the light of spiritual love shines through. You can bring darkness, or you can bring light. The choice is yours.

No one is coming to save you. Too many Christians think that Jesus will come on the clouds with a flaming sword to kill all the “bad guys” and save the “good guys.” That’s not how it works. God gave you free will. He put the tools of salvation into your hands. You must choose. Others think the secret “white hats” will emerge in the final scene to destroy the “black hats” and save the world. You’ve got the wrong film. Your life, your fortune, and your sacred honor are in your hands alone.³ You must choose. You must act.

Remember that totalitarianism is always based on mass formation which is always based on an ideology—it’s not “bad guys” but ideology, faulty thinking, distorted perception. You can never simply kill the “bad guys” to end totalitarianism. Other despots will take their place as long as people adhere to the ideology and the mass formation psychosis. You must break the ideology, the lies, the constricted perception. As I have said many times, only by perceiving differently can you see the truth and avoid totalitarianism.

Those selfish people who seek to impose a modern “divine right of kings” must be swept away with a new “magna carta.” Our new “magna carta” must be not simply a power of barons to balance the power of kings but a new constitution that prevents the accumulation of power that could enslave others. It must recognize the rights and responsibilities of each person for their own lives. The founding documents of the United States attempted to do this. We must try again.

Many people will resist this. Many will fear it. Responsibility is scary. You might fail. That's the chance you take with freedom. But without freedom, you have no chance at all. Many will ask, "How will people find work without the Department of Labor? How will people be healthy without the Department of Health? How will our children learn without the Department of Education? How will business prosper without the Department of Commerce? How will we avoid drugs without the DEA? How can we be safe without the CIA, the FBI, the DHS, and a dozen other acronyms?"

I hope you are beginning to realize that our oft-lauded government institutions do not help people solve their problems in life. Most often, they do exactly the opposite. We need to learn again that it is not charity to do for a man what he could and should do for himself. That is enslavement. Throughout the world, we have allowed ourselves to become enslaved by the promise of something for nothing. There is no such reality.

The butterfly must fight its own way out of its chrysalis. If you assist it, it dies. So it is with man—with our present metamorphosis. This is true for us as individuals and as a collective. Each of us must struggle against the forces of oppression and coercion that we face in our daily lives. You might be fired from your job if you speak the truth to power. So be it. You might be decertified by your professional association if you call out the lies within it. So be it. You might be insulted and ostracized by your friends and neighbors if you try to show them how they have been deceived. So be it. Your business might be bankrupted by a boycott organized by a collection of communist zealots. So be it. You might be assaulted by police for peacefully protesting against the tyranny of our oppressors. So be it.

You must find the courage within your own heart to do what you believe is right. This is Liberty. As the opening quote to this chapter says, Liberty is not the right to do as we please but the opportunity to do what is right. You have the courage to do what is right. It is within you because the Spirit of God is within you and it knows no fear, only love. To fly free like the butterfly you truly are, you must accept the death of the caterpillar and struggle through the chrysalis of fear—on your own. But you are never truly on your own. God is always with you. God is within you. If you are willing to accept it, God is you. If you are Christian, then you know that the Holy Spirit dwells within you. You are God expressing through you in your manifestation as a particular human being at a particular moment in time. You are already “one with God.” You simply need to recognize this reality.

For those of you with no spiritual understanding, at least know that you have within you the ability to solve every problem that life throws at you. You already have the intelligence, the courage, and the love you need for your life. Just like the Wizard of Oz told the scarecrow, the lion, and the tin man, you already have what you seek. You only need the recognition that it is there. I am not a wizard, but take my word for it. You have all you need. You can do it!

Escape to Freedom

“Live not by lies.” —ALEKSANDR SOLZHENITSYN

Remember Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn and Live Not By Lies. Do not tolerate lies. Insist on honesty. Insist on the truth. Lies bring slavery. “The truth will set you free,” (Jn 8:32). Every thought, true or false, is contagious. Your thoughts affect the collective consciousness of the whole planet. When you turn your mind from falsehoods to true thoughts, you help to bring freedom to everyone. Like the hundredth monkey phenomenon, when enough people insist on the truth, all the lies will crumble.

But understand also that freedom lives on the same coin as responsibility. Therefore, accept responsibility, welcome it, embrace it—as if your life depended on it. It does. Your freedom has not been taken from you. You have given it away with your responsibility. Take it back. To shirk your responsibility is a form of corruption. This may be hard for you to accept—that you too have become corrupt. It’s much more comforting to blame others for this. You were corrupted by the siren call of ease, by the promise of something for nothing, to trade your sacred freedom for a bowl of porridge. It is a lie. Live not by lies. There is no reality of something for nothing. The little “something” you received you paid for with your responsibility, and your freedom slipped out the door in responsibility’s embrace.

Tell your politicians that you do not want handouts or benefits from the government. You want the government to leave you alone—to live your life in peace and to solve your own problems. Do not ask for a government pension, for social security, for welfare, for food stamps, for free medicine, for jobs, or for protection from terrorists or the weather or sickness. You do not need the government to do for you what you can and should do for yourself.

Many will be shocked by this. Some will be offended, some bewildered. If you ever want to see the dawn of a new day of freedom, you must struggle through the dark night of responsibility. Such is the diurnal cycle of life. You cannot have day without night. You cannot have accomplishment without struggle. You cannot have freedom without responsibility. You will never win if you shrink from the fight. You will never find truth if you believe everything you are told. You will never again entertain freedom if you do not also welcome responsibility. This is what it means to truly “grow up.”

The escape to freedom is the escape from fear. As the Master Teacher said, there is nothing to fear. Fear is the opposite of love. God is Love. In God there is no fear, for “perfect love casts out all fear,” (1 Jn 4:18). Do not fear a virus nor terrorists nor the climate. Do not fear your neighbors—and everyone is your neighbor. In truth, they are your brothers and sisters. They wish you no harm. Those who wish to enslave us have taught us to fear our own brothers and sisters. It is a lie. Live not by lies.

You already have within you all you need, for God is with you. God is your Father, your Creator, your Animator, your Protector, your Refuge, your Confidant, your Guide, your Beginning, and your Ending. It is in God that you live and move and have your Being. You are an eternal being of Light and Love. For you, dear butterfly, there is no death, only transformation. For you, there is no loneliness; God is always with you.

For you, there is no despair; the Joy of God dwells within you. For you, there is no hatred; the Love of God is who you are. For you there is no failure; there is always another opportunity. For you, with God, all things are possible.

About the Author

The eclectic Donald Lee is a musician, teacher, band director, economist, power engineer, marketer, businessman, athlete, public speaker, and author. He holds degrees in economics and education. Donald is an Albertan, growing and raising his family in Fort Saskatchewan. He has always been active in his community in many ways: founder of the Fort Saskatchewan Community Band, of a children's choir, a performer in many local bands, orchestras and choirs, as well as coaching minor sports.

Donald spent two decades in the fertilizer industry in many roles: labourer, chemical process operator, marketer, and new product developer with the research group.

He made a mid-life career change and returned to his first love – music—then spent two decades as a teacher and band director in various schools in Alberta, Kuwait, and Pakistan. Primarily a band director, Donald has also taught choir, musical theatre, jazz band, English, math, drama, social studies, even art and carpentry.

He has often been active in the political process and has run for provincial party nominations twice. Donald has also been an active member of Toastmasters, advancing to the World Championship of Public Speaking in 1995.

Donald remains an avid sportsman and athlete – skiing, swimming, running, hiking, canoeing, fishing, and hunting in the great Alberta outdoors. In his 50's he took up triathlon, competing in local and national events including the 2013 ITU World Finals as part of the Canadian Team.

As a band director and a religion teacher, Donald melds the two genres to bring the “life of the spirit” truly to life in stories. Inspired by his teaching experience, Donald turned classroom episodes into modern-day parables in his book, The Band Director's Lessons About Life.

Added to his own convoluted, life-long spiritual quest, Donald draws on his many years of teaching religion classes—everything from A to Z, the Apostle's Creed to Zen Buddhism. Following humbly in the footsteps of Jesus, Donald picks up the pedagogy of the parable to instruct through story. His spiritual work aims to bring spirit into materiality, to help people be in the world but not of the world, to guide people along their individual spiritual journey back to God. And in the process, to live our physical life to the fullest.

In "What the Hell Is Going On?" Donald Lee pulls together evidence from a dozen disciplines to make sense out of a senseless world. He "connects the dots" on a web of fraud that is leading inexorably to a one-world totalitarian tyranny.
