PROLOGUE

Jigsaw Puzzle is a game in which a picture drawn on a small cardboard is cut into several irregularly shaped pieces, and the pieces are mixed together. The task is to assemble them correctly and restore the picture.

Speaking allegorically, Jewish history is, in a way, a Jigsaw Puzzle game also, just enormous by its scale. Imagine countless number of pictures on a gigantic piece of cardboard. They depict different events of Jewish history.

Here is a picture—ancient Jews are wandering on the bottom of the parted Red Sea during their Exodus from Egypt in the 14th century before common era (BCE). Next to it, the mighty Egyptian Pharaoh, a mortal enemy of Jews, and his battle chariots are chasing Jews to kill them. Here, the Egyptians are drowning in the sea, while Jews are miraculously escaping annihilation. and over there, far away, 3500 years away, in the 20th century common era (CE), Joseph Stalin, another mortal enemy of Jews, is preparing to deport the Soviet Jews to Siberia to certain death, but dies right before the deportation, while Jews miraculously escape annihilation, again.

This cardboard is cut into countless number of pieces (facts, dates, events, personalities, their behavior and actions, their fate, etc.). The task of this book is to find the proper pieces and assemble them in the required order to restore the most important pictures of the 3500-year-long Jewish history. These pictures depict the most horrific catastrophes suffered by Jews, atrocities caused by mortal enemies of Jews and miraculous salvations of the Jewish people from annihilation! In this respect, this book has two goals that require a new approach to Jewish history.

The first goal is to reveal all catastrophes in Jewish history. A catastrophe is meant to be a horrific historic event that could lead or have already led the Jewish people to the brink of annihilation. One of them is a well-known, thoroughly studied and recognized catastrophe—the Holocaust perpetrated by Nazi Germany. That’s why Jews call the Holocaust a “Shoah” (a catastrophe in Hebrew).

The second goal is to find out who were the deadliest enemies of Jews, the main perpetrators of those Holocausts; what happened to them and what helped the Jewish people to escape annihilation.

According to these goals, the book is divided into two parts that are subject-related and complement each other.

Part 1 “Six Holocausts in Jewish History” consists of six separate essays published by the author in 2023-2024. They were selected because their content is directly related to those Holocausts. These essays were updated, expanded, organized in a chronological order and presented in a book format.

Here is a brief history of the Holocausts. It dates back to the Exodus of ancient Jews from Egypt (the 14th century BCE). The Egyptian Pharaoh and his army rushed to chase Jews fleeing on the bottom of the parted Red Sea. Liberated from slavery Jews found themselves on the brink of a catastrophe that, by scale, could have by far surpassed the Holocaust perpetrated by Nazi Germany! But the Egyptians were drowned, while Jews were miraculously saved from annihilation. Thus, Jews escaped their first catastrophe—the Egyptian Holocaust was miraculously prevented! Otherwise, it would have been the last Holocaust in Jewish history—the Jewish people (100% of them) would have ceased to exist!

About 7 centuries have passed. During that period, Jews created United Kingdom of Israel on the Promised land, then split it into two states (Israel and Judea). and when Jews lived in their own independent Jewish states, another-Holocaust broke out, this time a real one. It was the Assyrian Holocaust that really happened during the Assyrian invasion (732-701 BCE). Almost 90% of all Jews were annihilated or taken into captivity!

Another 7 centuries have passed. During that time, Jews lost their states and independence, but managed to create another Jewish state—Hasmonean kingdom. Not long after that, another Holocaust broke out, the real one. It was the Roman Holocaust that happened during the Judea-Roman Wars (66-136 CE). The Romans killed or banished from the Promised land into exile (Galut, Diaspora) almost 80% of Jews!

For 18 centuries, Jews lived in exile—dispersed all over the world, homeless, persecuted and oppressed. But at the end of that period (19th -20th centuries CE), the situation began to change. Napoleon Bonaparte started the process of emancipation of Jews in the host countries of Europe—Jews were given equal rights. But what a paradox! At the peak of the emancipation, another Holocausts broke out. It was the Nazi Holocaust (1939-1945) that killed about 66% of the European and 35% of the world's Jewry.

About 3 years later, something incredible has happened. After 2 millennia in exile, Jews began to return to the Promised Land! Modern Israel has risen from the ashes of Jews burnt down in the ovens of the Nazi Holocaust (1948). It seemed that the new generation of Jews will not have to live under the threat of another Holocaust, never again! But just 5 years after the new Jewish state Israel was proclaimed, a new threat of another Holocaust has emerged, this time in the USSR. Joseph Stalin decided to deport Soviet Jews to the wild regions of Siberia where they all were supposed to die out. Scheduled to start in mid-March 1953, it would have been a catastrophe, on par by horrors with the Nazi Holocaust! But the deportation was abandoned after Stalin suddenly died on March 5, 1953, just 2 weeks before it was supposed to start. Thus, the Soviet Holocaust was miraculously prevented. Almost 100% (2 million) of the Soviet and 20% of the world's Jews have escaped annihilation!

Moreover, less than 50 years have passed since Israel was founded, and another catastrophe was looming on the horizon again. In the 1990s, Saddam Husei, President of Iraq, started secret operations to acquire nuclear weapon in order to destroy Israel. It would have been another Holocaust, if it had happened. But the Iraqi Holocaust was miraculously prevented too. It has saved almost 50% of the world's Jewry!

Here is the summation. It's hard to believe, but the Jewish people had to deal with six Holocausts during their dangerous and tragic existence. Only one of them (the Nazi Holocaust) is well-known and recognized by official history as Holocaust. The rest were found hidden in the maze of the 3500-year-long Jewish history where they were hidden unnoticed. Three of the Holocausts have really happened, and three—were prevented. Three were identified in antiquity, and three—in modernity (all of them in the 20th century CE).

The unusual interpretation of Jewish history offered in this book, particularly, the discovery of the unknown Holocausts, may puzzle you and cause serious doubts. After all, such shocking interpretation, in fact, may look just like a phantasy!

However, each unknown Holocaust will be justified later based on well-known historic events and facts from well-known and available sources of information, except that these events and facts are looked at from an unusual perspective.

Jewish history is full of unexpected surprises, unsolved mysteries and hidden regularities. The described above Holocausts, both real and prevented, are not random historic events. They are a manifestation of some unknown and mysterious regularity of Jewish history. In fact, I want to draw your attention to the history of the Holocausts described above.

They took place only when Jews gained freedom from slavery, live in their own Jewish states or achieved equal rights in the host countries! In contrast, there were no Holocausts when Jews were enslaved, homeless or oppressed!

A paradox, isn't it? That's why this regularity was named the Paradox of Holocaust. It allows an astonishing assumption to be made:

Holocaust is a hostile reaction of the world to liberation of Jews from slavery, homelessness and oppression! The world is overfilled with hate when Jews become free, independent or capable of defending themselves!

...What you learned about the described above Holocausts may raise a number of provocative questions. For millennia, Jews have been surrounded by many other peoples. Then why did Jews, particularly, suffer so many horrific Holocausts that brought them to the brink of annihilation? Why were so many of them prevented? If so, then why to count them as Holocausts? and the main question—what did prevent these Holocausts and save the Jewish people?

Here is a relevant allegory. Imagine a tiny tropical island surrounded by vast waters of a treacherous and dangerous sea. (To make it close to reality, assume that it is the island of St. Lucia in the Caribbean Sea). Storms are constantly hammering the island, and, sometimes, a hurricane is looming on the east. It can go in any direction, but it is always heading to the west in the direction of the island. The center (the eye) of the hurricane, which the most destructive part of it, makes a landfall and devastates the island. But sometimes, something blocks a hurricane, and forces its eye to pass over. Nevertheless, the hurricane is still dangerous—it does a lot of damage to the island by wind, rain and flood. So, what is blocking such hurricanes? The wind that blows toward it from the west! A wonder of Nature, it prevents these hurricanes and saves the doomed island!

The Jewish people, in a way, reminds that island. This tiny nation is surrounded by the enormous, treacherous and dangerous world. The world has been constantly persecuting Jews unleashing sometimes a catastrophic Holocaust that devastates the Jewish people. But often, something miraculously blocks the Holocaust forcing it to pass over the doomed Jews. Although the Holocaust is prevented, it is still dangerous because it still does a lot of harm to the Jewish people. But what is blocking and preventing such Holocausts, and miraculously saving the Jewish people? A surprising answer to this question is given in Part 2 of this book.

Part 2 “Pantheon of Infamy, Law of Retribution and Tunnel of Exodus” is the main part of the book. While Part 1 is tasked to reveal the most horrific, real (or prevented) catastrophes suffered by Jews, the task of Part 2 is to give answers to three main questions, which are symbolically reflected in the title of Part 2 of this book:

Who were the deadliest enemies of Jews, perpetrators of the real (or potential) Holocausts?

How did their decision to annihilate the Jewish people affect those enemies, and how were they destroyed?

and, finally, how did Jews manage to escape each time when the merciless world threatened or tried to annihilate them throughout the long and tragic Jewish history?

To answer the first question, special criteria were applied. It allowed the deadliest enemies of the Jewish people to be revealed by the threat they posed to the existence of the Jewish people. To distinguish them from countless ordinary Jew-haters, they were exposed in an imaginary gallery named the Pantheon of Infamy.

The answer to the second question turned out to be striking since another surprising regularity was revealed. As it turned out, all these mortal enemies of Jews ended up dying prematurely and in strikingly similar ways. They died violent and humiliating death as if they were punished by six articles of some unknown law! This allowed a provoking assumption to be made. Their punishment was not a result of the chain of some random coincidences, but the manifestation of an unknown, mysterious regularity of Jewish history that was named the Law of Retribution.

and the last, the most important question. How did Jews manage to escape annihilation over their 3500-year-long existence. Another surprising regularity was revealed here again. As it turned out, Jews managed to escape annihilation always due to some miraculous chain of supernatural events. These events emerged always when Jews found themselves on the brink of annihilation and guided them to salvation. It happened first during the Exodus of Jews from Egypt in the form of a miraculous passage (tunnel) in the parted Red Sea. This tunnel guided Jews to salvation. Various but similar life-saving tunnels opened before Jews many times in the course of Jewish history. Therefore, by analogy with the Exodus, such miraculous, supernatural and life-saving events were named the Tunnel of Exodus.

To answer these questions and to justify the provocative assumptions presented above, proper evidence was introduced in the book. They are based on well-known and little-known historic facts and events described in available sources. However, these facts and events as well as their cause-and-effect relationships are interpreted in an unexpected and unusual way.

The main focus is, however, to prove the provocative assumption that Jews owe their miraculous salvations to some unknown historic regularities, one of them being the Law of Retribution. This Law came to the rescue of the Jewish people many times in the past. Today, after the massacre perpetrated by the terrorists of HAMAS in Israel on October 7, 2023, it may come again to the rescue of modern Jewish people as well.

The Law of Retribution is a Message of Hope found in the annals of ancient and modern Jewish history that was hidden there unnoticed up to these days! The intent of this book is to deliver this message of hope to the modern Jews. Another intent is to draw attention to Jewish history that still hides many unsolved mysteries and prophecies. Some of them are described in the book “Law of Conservation of Jews” by Valdemar Malin.¹

This book is about unknown Holocausts; about the deadliest enemies of Jews; about how those enemies were destroyed; and what helped the Jewish people to escape annihilation throughout their 3500-year-long history.
