THE FIRST LETTER

The first letter starts out explaining the situation at hand, mainly being that a woman was traveling abroad when she got a letter from her sister. The sister was obviously in turmoil about her social and/or love life. This woman takes no time with sympathy, instead almost scolding her. She then reveals the insights, and proceeds to instruct the sister to keep the letter and subsequent letters private. She reveals the first insight with example and instructions, then signs off. The insight must be studied carefully to see what's really going on when it is used.

I tried this insight first and was surprised at the results, which prompted me to study the other letters more carefully.

My Dearest Charene,

I am currently sailing the Adriatic with Jonas, and he is attentive and generous as ever. We pulled into port and went automobile shopping!

I received your letter and am sternly advising you to take heart and think of me as an example in your troubles. I assure you that your tears are unfounded. I miss you and will be back soon, after the summer.

As your sister, I am going to expect a change from this drivel you are writing about unfound love. You can have any man you desire, even the richest, most famous, the most handsome!

You reek of jealousy in your letters about my good fortune with Jonas, and yet you call me plain and unattractive. Let me tell you a little secret. I am! This envy must stop however, and I am now going to impart the wisdom of a friend I had in school on your misery.

This girl single handedly changed my romantic life by showing me her mother's diary. In it were the most amazing insights to how the minds of men work. All of them. No exceptions. I will happily dispense these insights to you, under condition: When I get back to the states you must have a handsome adorable rich man on your arm or I will stop all pleasantries. I mean it, Charene, I am tired of the gloom! I am prepared to sever ties with my own beloved sister if you do not pay heed! I am going to be very forthright and technical with or correspondence from here on out, so dispense with all pleasantries. Please do not gush with letters of progress until I am done. I won't even open them. You may send me only letters that say you have received mine!

I copied all of the girl's mother's insight and will now and in following letters reveal them to you. You have to swear to secrecy with this, or I will NEVER forgive you.

However, you are my sister, I love you and want you to be happy, so I will begin the insights. I will try to give you each one in entirety with each letter starting with the first one right now. These marvelous insights will put you in control of your opportunities with the men of your dreams from the first moments of encounter! Try to remember them all; your happiness depends upon it!

Well, here they are:

Number 1

When you meet a man you like, first compliment his sexuality, then IMMEDIATELY counteract this compliment with a blow to his ego.

Example:

“Well, James, you are really very sexy for someone who is quite full of himself...”

This will throw a man’s mind into a state of playful confusion; his subconscious sexual ego is quickly validated, outweighing his need for a clever comeback or sly comment. Then he will be challenged by the conscious ego blow and be compelled to engage with you in a romantic or sexual way, with you controlling the way the conversation goes! If you are discreet (such as a whisper) when you deliver this line he will be even more taken by you. Bite your lip seductively while you say it and you will be beating him off with a stick! Then *continue in a more friendly manner to take away any indication of sensual interest.

I have to go, we are off to water ski!*

*All my love
Camille*

*Sounds simple and strange, right?
Well, let me tell you, I laughed it off as silly at first. Then I put this one little insight to the test when I saw somebody I liked.*

*He was “way out of my league”.
So I saw him one day and “dropped my handkerchief” in front of him. (I was carrying a newspaper, bumped into him, and he then helped me gather them from the ground.)*

He says, “I’m so sorry...”

I say, “That’s okay, handsome..(then to myself, in a low voice that he could hear), “..handsome clumsy oaf!...”

He says, “No I’m really not..I mean..”

Small conversation, nice to meet you, you live around here, my name is, we should get a drink, etcetera...

*He called soon after and I went out with him, armed with the other insights from the Abridge letters.
Then I met someone else and started the whole process again.
What happened with the clumsy oaf?
(Really a super smart and handsome HUNK!)*

He soon broke up with his very pretty girlfriend. He started taking me to romantic dinners, wooing me, trying to “get in my pants”. His girlfriend caught us making out at a club one night and started screaming at both of us! It was highly entertaining and satisfying. 😊 He's been calling for six months, begging me to spend time with him.

It has something to do with the way a man's brain works. The quick up-to-down assault on his ego at first encounter, maybe.

I don't question it. I'm sure there's some psychology majors that can "mumbo jumbo" the reasons, but I don't have the time for it. I just gave it a whirl, and I'm still smiling.

There's also some basic rules in the last Abridgande letter that have worked really well for me. But I'll save those for later.

When the insights didn't work, I would go back to each letter and study the exact words and examples more carefully. Then I'd return to the game with much better success. I definitely would recommend a one time delivery with each encounter. If it doesn't sink in, give it a week before trying the insight again on any one guy. It will work on his subconscious eventually.
