THIS IS a story of three friends. Now, it is not your ordinary story about friendship.

These three friends did not meet at school or on the playground. They met on a mountain far away.

They were very different. They came from very different places.

ON THIS MOUNTAIN

lived a man named Gabe. He was alone and sometimes lonely.

Spiker was the first of the three friends to arrive on the mountain. Spiker was old. He always seemed old. He was about 18 inches tall and about 24 inches long. His coat was tan and white, and very short and stubbly. His bark sounded like no other dog. It did not even sound like a bark. When he opened his little mouth, out would come a course howl! "Oouuuughhh."

Spiker used to live down the mountain from Gabe. But one day his old owner just boarded up his doggie door and sent him off to find a new home.

POOR SPIKER!
