

Emergence

Finding New Life Amidst a Crashing World

KAREN BISHOP

Emergence will take you through the process of the end times, giving physical, mental, emotional, and even geographical descriptions of what this process feels like and how it unfolds for each and every one of us. After we leave so much behind, either voluntarily or involuntarily, we then arrive in a very new space where we will eventually meet up with those we love and who love us in return.

After We Depart

From “Crossing Over”:

FOR THOSE WHO HAVE MOVED into spaces of creating the life of their dreams, what feels right and looks right may vary for each and every one of us. How do we know and identify then, what it is that we really and truly desire?

In times past, we were strongly guided by Source, our star families of origin, and the universe. At times along the way, we may have thought that we really and truly wanted something, and found to our dismay, that what we wanted simply could not and would not manifest for us. There are several reasons for this scenario, and when we understand why, it can all make sense:

1. The group energy, or one mind of all of us who created and who are experiencing the ascension process, made a plan, and thus, needed and agreed to follow this plan each step of the way. As things progressed (and notably, at times, did not progress), we tweaked and molded the plan according to the situations then present, so in this way, although there has always been a general plan, the path there was always open to change and flexibility. As mentioned so many times in

Crossing Over, things did not progress as we had hoped, and if even at all, extremely slowly. So then, we pulled out all the stops, placing ourselves in every situation we could, in order to ensure the success of our plan. This was our main goal during this first phase — our goal was not to manifest for ourselves, all of our heart's desires, as it was not yet time for this particular phase. We were dedicated to our purpose then, and I believe that many of us gave it our all. In this way, whenever we may have felt that it was time to manifest a community, or a beautiful sacred space, or a new and special spiritual retreat, or even much of anything for ourselves alone, we were at times unable to do these things in the ways that we expected. Why, then, was it so hard to manifest during these times?

A. We were being guided and assisted by our souls and our star families, who knew more than we did at the time. I remember a time several years ago, when I was asked to go to a specific spot in nature, with a massive waterfall flowing over a large mountain in order to connect to the special energy there and to bring it more fully into the planet. I have never believed that we were meant to be ordered around against our will for these strange duties, so I declined. Later that day, my grandchildren and I were trying to decide where to go for a day in nature. Oddly enough, we ended up right at that particular spot anyway! Bringing in and assisting with the energies in order to raise the vibration of the planet, was our sole (soul) purpose during this first phase, seemingly whether we liked it or not! In this way, many of us ended up in places and situations we may not have chosen by our conscious selves.

B. We could not manifest at times, because we would soon rapidly evolve out of our current desires, and would then have to back out or re-do or un-do what we had just manifested. This is one of the main reasons that we were blocked at times. Also, manifesting strictly for ourselves alone, without regard to the whole, was not in alignment with our purpose during the first phase, but that situation has now changed to a degree. This will be more fully explained further on in this book.

C. We could not manifest at times, because it simply was not yet time. The vision that many of us have held, in regard to creating the original blueprint for the earth, as this is really what some of us came to do, was simply not ready to be hatched until we reached a certain frequency within ourselves and within the planet. Many tried to create specific things, but they frequently fell apart, disbanded, or could never get off the ground at all. It was simply not yet time, as we were still involved with the first phase. And even though many of us were quite ready within ourselves, we still needed to wait for the critical mass situation to be complete before we could be released, in order to then move into something very new...alas, our very new roles, or for some, their own version of Heaven on Earth.

These are but a few of the reasons that we have been held back for so long. And these are reasons as well, that common manifesting techniques and manifesting knowledge simply would not work as they should have in certain situations. The soul always pulls rank on the law of attraction, for instance, as soul level anything vibrates the highest and lives in a higher dimension. Our souls and soul plans always run the roost.

The ascension process is a master at removing our denser ego energy. First encounters with the process many times involve extreme health situations that last as long as they need to, in order to train us in “getting out of the way,” releasing control, opening, and allowing. We become incapacitated and helpless, in order to create this scenario. This phase of the ascension process is vitally needed in the beginning stages.

As time goes on, hitting brick wall after brick wall when we try to create (due to the reasons above in A, B, and C), places us in this space as well. We begin to give up and allow a higher power to take over.

With the first phase of the ascension process now complete, so much in regard to creating as a whole has drastically changed. We are now in new territory, and this dictates a very new scenario. Arriving in so called Heaven, means that we can now create whatever we choose. It is most definitely up to us now, and the new reality, or even our own individual reality, can look like whatever we want it to look like.

This brings up some interesting freedom of choice, to be sure. What is our dream about? What makes our hearts sing? What would our ideal day look like? Who would be in it? Where would we be? And what would we spend our time doing?

In times past, the ascension process gave us an unmistakable direction in regard to who we were and where we were going. That time is now over. Our sense of direction, then, is now muddy and gray to some degree, as we may not be used to having so much individual choice.

But it is now all about our freedom of choice. In this way, we may have had distinct visions for a very long time, and may have suddenly found that they seemed dis-connected from who we are now. Our rudders may now seem out of their grooves, as our old roles and the original plan of bringing everyone along, has now dissipated and dissolved. And are some of us too tired to continue on with creating the new (or original) blueprint for Planet Earth?

Update: Although we are now, more than ever, able to create the life of our dreams, there are nonetheless certain situations (although few) where Source seems to know more than we do! We may find that Source has given us a new geographical home or even that Source blocks situations that may not be a good fit for us. All in all, it is our souls or higher selves that do the creating for us, and by simply relaxing and “being,” we will naturally bring to ourselves a most perfect fit. More about this further along in this book. Back to Crossing Over :

On this new and other side, or the place we find ourselves after we have been released, we simply get to just “be.” Without an agenda or perhaps any strong direction, we are now here to enjoy ourselves and the company of our brothers and sisters. As we look around and see who is beside us, we can then welcome them into our dream, as we love and respect them with great reverence and gratitude.

On this other side, any “pulls,” tensions, struggles, and agendas are seemingly gone. All our needs are always met, we get to relax and enjoy, and come together in whatever form that looks like.

In many ways, we may wonder if the ascension process ever happened at all. Has anything even changed? Did all our transmuting and all our efforts do any good? Was it all for naught?

When we were in the process and enmeshed in the old world, we were very connected to our souls, as we needed that energy and connection to bring up the vibration of the planet as a whole. We were most certainly “on task” in every way, seemingly whether we wanted to be or not. With the advent of the new plan, we are now completely severed from the old world, as connecting to it is no longer necessary. Thus, we are now somewhere very new and starting over in very new ways. So again, we may feel a loss of connection to our soul selves, or higher parts of ourselves, even though the ascension process was designed to create a stronger connection in these areas. This is because we are starting all over again, with a very new “us,” in a very new land. (We feel “not all here” when we connect to an old world that is vibrating much lower than we are.)

We may feel that we are now going back to our old selves, the selves that we were before the ascension process began, and this is because in a sense we are. As our old roles are now forever gone, we now get to return to our true and authentic selves — the selves that are not here to bring up the vibration of the planet, but are here to create and experience a very new reality. And this is the original plan as well. With an ascension design that did not turn out as was hoped, we get to “give it back,” and begin creating a new world and new reality, all on our own and without interference from an old reality that would not wake up. This also relates to our very own individual reality as well, as this is where we start.

These true and authentic selves, the selves we really were before the ascension process began, are who we really are, in regard to our dreams and manifestations, or in other words, in regard to the planet as a place for experiencing and creating. This is, then, the original blueprint for Planet Earth. Planet Earth was always intended to be a place for experiencing and creating. This is the highest level, so to speak, of being an off-shoot of Source. In regard to the ascension process, we chose to create it, as part of our experience of “experiencing.” The new world then, is all about restoring the earth to this original blueprint, as creating and experiencing is its original purpose. As the old world continues to decline, deteriorate, and express itself in ways that are indicative of who is residing there, and thus, what they are creating, the new world and new reality will be all about those who are indeed residing here.

We all tend to create what fits us and what will give us states of being that we desire. We may create something, for instance, that is representative of peace and tranquility. These creations on Earth are an illusion for creating these states of being and for providing contentment and serenity, or for just making us feel darn good. The form of our creations then, may be different for each and every one of us.

Can we stay in these types of personal creations of our Heaven on Earth? Can we create them and place ourselves within them for as long as we wish?

When we cross over through the third dimensional process of physical death, many times we find ourselves in a place that feels great for us. Some souls might find themselves fishing for a lifetime, on a beautiful stream in a perfect Heaven. After awhile, if we stay there too long, loving beings will come and encourage us to move on. We usually have roles of service to fulfill, and these holding patterns of our perceived Heaven were designed from our imaginations, and also to create a very needed rest period.

Will we choose to create a reality or illusion for ourselves alone, or will we choose to remember higher ways of living and being, and create according to our soul memories and original plan for the earth?

Emergence

Have we indeed grown and expanded through the ascension process, and are we then now ready to create what is in alignment with who and what we have become, or even what we may remember as the original blueprint for the earth?

Here is the plain and simple truth in regard to the ascension plan: The souls who created the plan, who came to this Earth to implement it, and who placed themselves within it, crossed over no matter what. Soul energy always vibrates higher than any other energy, and overrides it in every single instance, no matter what the circumstances. So in this way, there will be souls now residing on the other side (or who have been released) who have not yet awakened and who are not consciously aware of the plan. Nor do they embody higher ways of living and being. Sounds strange, but this is the way it is. If you are one who suddenly had the experience of re-connecting to someone from your past, or whom you felt was a soul mate of some kind, and wondered why, as they were really vibrating some dense energy, and then they swiftly departed, it was because they were letting you know at soul levels that they had arrived as well. And sometimes we meet up with them in our dream states at night while we are sleeping, just to say hello and then good-bye. Their old roles are over at their soul levels, as all of our old roles are over. We all arrived in totality at the same time when the line was drawn in the sand. These souls who have crossed over and are still asleep or seemingly vibrating lower, will undoubtedly begin creating their own individual Heaven on Earth. They will either stay there and be happy, or eventually become bored and feel that something is missing. Awakened and more conscious souls can also create their own individual Heaven on Earth, as they simply want to retire and have a rest. All scenarios will be present. And yet there are others who had the opportunity to cross over and are now stuck in between, remaining attached to the old reality and its familiarity, while not allowing themselves to completely let go.

Although all souls on the planet experienced ascension symptoms, as the intention was to have everyone on board, every soul then had an opportunity to awaken, but some would simply not make the needed changes within themselves — even after repeated struggles and suffering as an attempt by their souls to create changes within. These are the souls who have been left behind. And these are souls who at times, comprise our biological family members.

Update: The fore-runner souls have now been given the opportunity to move forward and create the life of their dreams while they are still here and seemingly “waiting” for the remainder of the planet to evolve. They will then, create individually, or create with others who share a great love with each other and with a common goal. Eventually, as others begin to reach higher levels of personal evolution, souls will begin to connect together and a new and very strong grid will form on the planet.

For those who have chosen to create a new reality, and come together in higher vibrating ways of living and being, what then will that reality look like and how will it come together?

Emergence will take you through the process of the end times, giving physical, mental, emotional, and even geographical descriptions of what this process feels like and how it unfolds for each and every one of us. After we leave so much behind, either voluntarily or involuntarily, we then arrive in a very new space where we will eventually meet up with those we love and who love us in return.
